The Governor's Gag...

Gathering information for a newsstory, rather than actually writing that story, is usually the most time consuming part of a reporter's job, and that task has been made exceedingly more time consuming, cumbersome, and in some cases, impossible, by our own governor, William Donald Schaefer

Some three weeks ago, our flamboyant leader reached the epitome of irrationality when he invoked a gag order on all state employees, prohibiting them from speaking to all news media as well as to state senators and delegates. As stated in a memorandum to all county health officers from the office of Nelson J Sabatini, secretary of the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, the governor's ban on talking to the press and state senators and delegatee does apply to all local health department employees who are state employees and contractual employees in the state system there should be no contact, either by phone, in person, or at meetings, such as advisory boards. The same applies to all other state employees

The governor's office prefers to call it a "directive" that is intended to make sure correct information is released to the media and to reduce duplication of information. However, this "directive" is greatly hampering and delaying news coverage efforts by the media

In our office this week, even routine information that has always been cheerfully provided by local state offices and employees was simply unavailable DNR rangers, for example, whom we contacted for totally benign, non-controversial information, would not speak to us about anything. Doing so would have literally put their jobs on the line. An employee from another state agency even refused to spell his name for us, because he was making the call for his boss who was, according to the governor's directive, supposed to make the call, but was too busy.

The governor's han was evidently accompanied by a real threat of termination, because there is major paranoia among all ranks of state employees. One group of about 100 employees was told by their supervisor. You're not to talk to anyone about anything Not statistics, not anything If you do, you'll be fired. If you explain why you can't talk, you'll be fired.

The governor makes no bones about his disdain of the media, so we can only assume that part of his intent here was to hurt us. His "directive" is indeed making it difficult for us to collect information, but it has also provided great fodder for editorial columns throughout the state Which - the governor or the media - do you believe will be hurt the most by this?

We also suspect that such a directive is downright unconstitutional. Surely no one, including the governor, can order state employees to refrain from speaking to their own elected state representatives' The whole idea is ludicrous

The expense of this fiasco should also be considered If it is in fact an effort at streamlining the flow of news, it is failing miserably. The loss of time and efficiency, as well as the extra expense for millions of additional telephone calls and paperwork, must be staggering Meanwhile, our state's treasury is sinking deeper and deeper into the red

We are willing to give Governor Schaefer the benefit of the doubt and believe that this whole thing was based on good intentions and is just a gross misunderstanding if he is willing to revoke his directive and restore the lines of communication that, in general, have worked quite well.

The Mind Wanders

Rude Dudes and Moods by Pam Ashby

Is it just me, or has the world gone mad with the wide acceptance of rude persons in the workplace, on the streets, in the schools, at community events, and every other darned place on earth? It's funny how more and more each day, I can almost justify violence in retaliation of such behavior

Don't you just love it when you call a medical facility or an institution of higher learning and you ask for a particular person or department and the person who just answered the phone did it in such a manner that it might kill him her Then, they don't even say, "One moment, please," or "Please hold "You just hear this deafening click as they blindly switch you to another department. I usually amuse myself by saving into dead air, Why thank you so much for being so damned pleasant today. Sure, I'll hold on. Don't you worry about being so rude. I'm sure you've been terribly busy today answering that telephone and pushing buttons. You shouldn't be forced to be polite or human to me. I'm scum, thank you." Of course, I usually get caught in the middle of this tirade by the other department that I was trying to reach in the first place and they usually know how weird I

Then, just last evening as I was driving to my sister's house, three chicks with attitudes proceeded to walk as close to my car as possible with incredibly belligerent looks on their preppie faces. What I did was keep moving over to give them their rude space. What I wanted to do was roll down my window and slap their snotty faces off their privileged faces. Thoughts of using them for target practice also crossed my deranged mind.

Hey, and what about the discourteous clerks in stores with "high hair" and long fingernails who not only can't thank you for your purchase which helps pay their blessed salary, but they find it much more important to finish pricing 3,000 candy bars before waiting on you in the first place. These chicks (and dudes) need a quick lesson in Pam Frantz economics, "Don't bite the hand that feeds you. You may get rabies, or at the least a green, oozing infection

This former doormat is fed up with rudeness from the ighest offices in the land to the tots who, through no fault of their own, have not learned anything about manners. I'm tired of being forgiving to people who don't deserve the gum. I'm forever scraping off the bottom of my shoe.

Now you can attribute my attitude to the fact that I quit smoking four weeks, three days, two hours and 16 minutes ago and that I might possibly be facing the "change of life. but I quite honestly felt the sting of rudeness since I was young enough to still be innocent yet old enough to know better. Maybe I do need to take a pill to calm down, but a few million other people need to examine more closely the way they treat others. Amen, darn it.

30-Hour Banking

Diploma Program A cooperative effort between Garrett Community College and the Maryland chapter of the American Banking Institute has resulted in the development of a 30-credit-hour academic program through which students can earn both a bank ing certificate from the college and AIB general bank ing diploma.

According to Joan B Crawford, director of enrollment development, this program has been designed for persons currently employed in the banking industry who wish to upgrade their skills, or for those who plan to enter the banking industry. Courses in the program will be given during the late afternoon and evening hours to accommodate working

The program consists of 10three-credit courses, six of which are GCC courses, and four of which are AIB courses specifically for the banking industry. In the fall semester, five of these required courses will be offered by the college during late afternoon and evening hours. They include principles of account-

AIB courses that will be thered in the program in-$295), economics for - (BUS296), marketing for bankers (BUS297). and consumer lending (BUS294) Although these courses do not currently appear in the GCC schedule, they will be offered on each w-mester so that students can take them in sequence Because this banking cer-tificate/AIB diploma program a Career Advancement program at the college, residents of West V.rginia who enroll are eligible for in-county tuition rates in accordance with the reciprocity agreement.

Any person desiring further information about this program may call Ms Crawfordatthecollege, 387-6666 Students may register for these courses at the Registrar's Office on weeklas from 9 am to 4 p.m.

Also, some sun exposure is healthy because it causes vitamin D production in the skin, helping to ward off osteoporosis. One way to avoid photoaging is by wearing protective clothing such as long sleeve shirts and wide-brimmed hats. Another way to prevent photoaging is to reduce the amount of sunlight that reaches the skin through the application of sunscreens. Sunscreens are rated with SPF values. The higher the value, the greater the protection. Some lip balms contain sunscreens to protect this sensitive area. For additional information or

GC Crime Solvers Meet; Various Items Discussed

The Gerrett County Crime Solvers organization held its regular monthly meeting on June 17 at Garrett Community College. It was noted that during June, several groups and businesses donated funds to the organization. They were the First United National Bank, the Women's Civic Club, Demaree's, Highland Thrift Shop, and the Oak-land Lodge of Masons. Rewards in the amount of $500 were given out during the month

Officer Larry Gnegy reported a breaking and entering incident that occurred at the Wilkes residence. He also noted the tempering of phone lines at the Whitewater Championships. A Maryland State Police representative reported the theft of 30 vehicle radiators and an assault at Par-Matt

Crime Solvers received one hotline call in June. The number is 334-1975

Those attending the meeting were Gerald Iman, Rebecca DeWitt, Gnegy, Ward Ashby, Susan Wolfe, and Don Sealing.

Crime Solvers organization is currently searching for information concerning a breaking and entering of a residence located on the Maynardier Ridge Road, just east of Jennings.

David Wilt reported that an unknown suspect(s) broke into his residence sometime between February 26-29 and removed several guns, a new wormy chestnut gun cabinet, two Stihl power saws, and numerous electrical carpentry tools.

The suspects also removed a blue 1990 Honda four-wheeler that was chained to a porch post. The post was sawed off with the victim's chain saw so that the chain that secured it could be removed. Total loss in this case is estimated at $1,100 formation about this or any other unsolved crime is urged to contact Crime Solvers at 334-1975. Persons do not have to give their names nor appear in court. Rewards up to $1,000 are available to persons who provide tips that lead to arrests.

A BRIEF MEMORIAL SERVICE and dedication of a dogwood tree in honor of the late Evelyn Olsen will be among the events of Friendaville Day '92 on Saturday, Aug. 1, in Friendaville Throughout her life, Mrs. Olsen, the former Evelyn Guard. interviewed and recorded stories of persons from generations past, and included information from persons such as Scott Friend who had fought in Indian wars. She married Clarence Olsen and resided in California, but returned to Friendsville often to visit and continue recording information. Her notes were later published in a book titled Indian Blood. Mrs. Olsen, who died in May at age 92, was one of the organizers of the Friend Family Association of America. The dogwood tree that will be dedicated was planted beside the former bank building in Friendsville, which now serves as the Association's national headquarters. The service, to which all are invited, is slated for 10 a.m. Evelyn Olsen's notes and notebooks, which have been donated by her family, will be on display in the Friend Library if they arrive in time, according to Ina Hicks, librarian

WHAT IS YOUR CHILD SLEEPING ON!?

Chances are it's a cheap or worn-out-hand-me-down mattress made for an adult. But children are not little adults. Their tender growing bodies need support in areas like the upper torso and the head, not the hips like their parents. What they need is a sleep set that is especially for them. What they need is a Kingsdown.

If you want to promote good posture and healthy sleep for the little one in your life, see the Kingsdown sleep set at Fitzwater's. It's the right sleep set for growing children. After all, they only grow up once.

*INTRODUCING THE SHOP WHERE It's Forever Christmas Eve.34

We call it The Holly & Ivy. You'll call it a very different kind of Christmas shop. Walk from the heat and glare of midsummer into a cozy parlor that is > brimming with the sights, sounds, and aromas of Christmas. In fact, it is Christmas Eve. At The Holly & Ivy, the clock is forever set at 11:15 pm, December 24th. Everything is in readiness for Santa's arrival...and yours.

Fragrant punch, cookies, the whisper of snowflakes at the window, and the reflected glow of wonderful things. Here you can browse at your leisure. If you are pleased with a decoration's effect in our parlor, you can easily imagine its place in your own. Our selection is as varied and many-splendored as the celebration of Christmas. The Holly & Ivy is a work of love. The three of us...Julia Lubis, Debbie Savage, and Nancy Frost...have spent months selecting the kinds of ornaments, decorations, and accessories we love to display in our own homes. The Holly & Ivy opens its door on Saturday, July 4th. So drop by one of these warm summer days...and spend Christmas Eve with us.

We're located in the lower level at The Fort in McHenry, next to Savage Frost. Open seven days a week, from 10am till 6pm. Call us at (301) 387-9111.

Youth Soccer League), eccording to Carole Ann Lovett, Association presi-The present field at Southern Middle, which has been utilized by the local adult team and occasionally by the youth league, will be converted for use by the medium age youth players, such as the under 10 and under 12 divisions. The small field closest to the school will be used primarily for the under 8 division. Lovett said that Jack Rickman, principal of South-ern Middle, has given the organization permission to develop the upper field on the west side of the school into a full size soccer "pitch," which will accommodate a World Cup regulation size field of 75 by 115 yards. It will be used primarily by the adult team and the high school age players. It was noted that, in the event soccer becomes a varsity sport within the Southern High School program, games could easily be played on this new field, which also has ideal seeting area along the adjacent hillside. "It is a stated goal in our constitution that we want to serve es e feeder group for a high school soccer team," Lovett said. "We have the support and backing from a variety of individuals to help finence the effort in order to take that burden off the local school board. An effective high school program can help industry in the area with efforts to recruit top talent to the area. If my understanding is correct, there are only four schools of our size in the state of Maryland that don't have soccer programs. With the World Cup coming to the United States in 1994, it would be a shame for us not to have the competitive opportunity for our kids at that time.

The Blondes Win Earns Honors At Dance Competition

Cassie Tressler, 6-year-old daughter of Doug and Tammy Tressler, Oakland, traveled to Myrtle Beach, S.C., July 11 to compete in "Stars of Tomorrow" dance competition hosted by Dance Caravan. The company travels around the country hosting such events and also trains young people in the performing arts. Miss Tressler, a dance student of Keckley's Dance Studio and a member of the Garrett Gymnastics Club, combined her dance and gymnastics abilities to perform two winning numbers during the four days of competition. She performed a classical ballet duet with her dance partner Nick Keckley, 12, of Keyser, W.Va. Dancing to the piece "Somewhere Over the Rainbow," they placed first in the 9-10 age group

The next evening, Miss Tressler performed a solo jazz gymnastics routing to the song "Crash" to win first place in her category.

Besides hosting the competition, Dance Caravan also provides classes in jazz, ballet, tap, and the new "hip hop" jazz dance.

The family of the child was notified that afternoon after Yoder spoke with the Fresh Air Fund in New York City. The organization in turn notified the police department, and officers went to the child's home to inform the mother of the accident. Yoder said a list of the mother's friends was also obtained and several other people were notified of the ragedy so that they could offer support to the family.

DNR park rangers, the Maryland State Police Medevac helicopter, volunteer fire fighters from Oakland, Deep reek, Deer Park, and Friendsville, and members of the Northern and Southern Garrett Rescue Squads were all on hand for the rescue effort coordinated by Rangers Roger Riley and Lisa and Dave Baker, which continued at the river Thursday afternoon and evening with the 60-70 volunteers finally giving up at dusk. The search resumed at daybreak

The current status of the Loch Lynn Elementary School was discussed by the education board. The state fire marshal has warned the board that the school does not meet state safety codes and must either be closed in a year or brought up to state standards. In previous months, the board had decided upon the installation of a sprinkler system at a cost of approximately $29,000.

However, Ryscavage brought new information to the board members concerning the upgrading of the school. He explained that in thorough review of the code violations, he and other supervisors had ascertained that the cost of bringing the school up to the standards by way of wall, door frame, and door replacements would cost in the neighborhood of $8,000. The board swiftly agreed to rejecting the previous bid for the sprinkler installation and to proceed ing with the reconditioning work. The work will apparently begin in the near fu-

Food Service Plans Richard Buckingham, director of food service, presented a "plan of action" for the coming school year. The goal of the plan is to encourage more student participation in the school lunch

Buckingham first gave his estimate of costs to cover the approved six-week trial of new healthful a la carte items. He said his needs for the program will be one floor model soft serve yogurt machine and two counter models, four popcorn machines, and the food product mated the total cost at $30,600 Ryscavage then suggested that the order be educed to one counter model yogurt machine and two popcorn machines plus the product. This brought the price down to approximately $15,000 The board agreed with this action.

Buckingham also noted that the food service will work on a ticket system this year. The entire school system will be using the ticket system wherein all students will purchase a lunch ticket to turn in for the meal. An ad hoc committee will be formed to gather ideas on increasing participation in the school lunch program. Members of the committee will be John Bennett from the state department of education, the members of the Food Service Advisory Committee, two cafeteria managers, Dr. Archer, and two students from the high schools. The first meeting of the committee was to be held on July 15.

Buckingham wishes to involve students in making the cafeteria a more pleasant environment in which to eat He also suggested the involvement of principals and teachers in marketing the food service program. The service will be using the first-time six-week cycle, suggested by the advisory committee. Buckingham distributed copies of the already-planned menu to all board members.

A separate item discussed at the board meeting concerned the piloting of an alternate educational program designed especially for students in middle and high schools who are on the verge of expulsion. A report on the new program will appear in next week's issue of The Republican.

Deer Park Sunday School Teacher, Homemaker Turns 98 With Pride by Sherry Lebowitz

The Deer Park United Methodist Church held a birthday party for Laura Mae Flamgan as she turned 98 on July 19 This unique woman is still surprisingly spry. as she washes her clothes, hangs them to dry, and even teaches Sunday school each week. She has taught Sunday school for more than five decades

Laura Mae was born July 19, 1894. She was married for the first time when she was 14 to Emanuel King He worked at B & O for a small salary and farmed with Laura Mae so that they had enough money to live. The couple would transport fruits and vegetables to the Deer Park Hotel by horse and buggy along with eggs, butter and flowers "We sold things for a lot cheaper then," she

During her marriage to Emanuel, Laura Mae had three children, Lola, Edward, and Harry

After Emanuel's death, Laura Mae married Walter Flanigan in 1928 Two daughters, Betty Mae and Dolly Louise, resulted from this marriage

Soon Laura Mae's house was destroyed in fire, and a new one was constructed through a joint effort by her three brothers and two sons

Laura was 31 when electricity was introduced to Deer Park 'I never missed a bill. I paid them each month," she said, and she was 60 when she first saw a television. An Oldsmobile was her first car "It was a big, long fellow," she Teaching Sunday school has been a part of Laura Mae's life for more than 50 years. Renee Beckman, Laura's granddaughter-in-law, stated, "Laura Mae gets upset when her students are absent. She cares about them and worries when they aren't there. Laura Mae prides herself in taking treats to her students each Sunday However, learning from a woman who has lived through nearly 100 years of history would be a special gift in itself

A Day In The Park With Elvis Proves To Be Success; Hundreds Attend Event

To celebrate the recent national accomplishment of resident Mark Stutzman, the mayor and town council of Mountain Lake Park sponsored "A Day in the Park with Elvis" on July 11 complete with a parade, a "key of the city" presentation, food booths, pony rides, face painting, and live music. Stutzman achieved national fame several months ago when his image of Elvis Presley was chosen by the country to appear on a 1993 U.S. postage stamp. Hundreds of people attended the event, anxious to get Stutzman's signature and to seize the chance to talk with the artist about his recent experience. The sun was kind and predicted storms didn't materialize, giving all a day to enjoy. Photos by Bill Stutzmen and Debble Lamparsili.

THE FIRST EVER "KEY TO THE CITY" was presented to Stutzman by Mountain Lake Park Mayor David Turney at the opening of the event, and the United States Postal Service gave the artist a large reproduction of the famed Elvis Presley stamp design. In a short speech, Stutzman expressed his thanks to the town and event organizers as the television cameras from WJAC-TV, Johnstown, Pa., rolled. The station reported on the event during Saturday evenings 6 p.m. news Another "first" at the event was an Elvis and Priscilla Presley Look-Alike Contest. Three people joined in the contest, two of which are shown right in their Priscilla outfits. Brianne Meyers (left) and Mahaffey tied in the female portion of the contest, and

SIGNATURE WAS HOT COMMODITY - Stutzman was literally swamped with requesta for his signature, and he indeed signed his name hundreds of times during the afternoon. Items autographed by the artist ranged from the McDonald's "Batman Returns" cups to newspaper clippings to even a pair of shorts. Event organizers finally had to interrupt the line of signature seekers to give the guest of honor a break. One person in pursuit of the Stutzman signature and who stood in line like everyone else was none other than Ginny Stutzman, pictured at right, the tarned artist's own mother.

Wow it's a jungle out there, but I can handle it. I have a very strong friend!

Apparently, this young man has descreed early in life that he must seek and possess strength if he allo survive the wild. In this case, the strength is that of a tiger, one in the royal powers of the jungle

Underestimation of the power of the langle kings could prove disasterous. Yet to comprehend and airy with that power is the key

Indeed our civilized world is a jungle of indecision of power struggle. We search for a sense of security in an uncertain society This Sabbath, go on spiritual safari. Worship God and comprehend that secure strength resulting from alliance with our omnipotent + ing

Proverbs 19 12 advises. "A king's wrath is like the growling of a flon, but his favor is like dew upon the grass.

This letter, 1 Timothy, has ometimes been used as a proof text to support an emphasis upon doctrinal correctness Actually, it is just the opposite The writer is concerned, not with how people articulate their ideas about Christ, but how they live their lives as a result of what they believe

There have been too many times in my life when someone has attacked me because I do not formulate the expression of my beliefs in just the same way he or she does. Many years ago. when I was an adult advisor to an ecumenical Christian state youth council, another advisor squelched our plans for cel ebrating Holy Communion together because he was certain that we did not believe about Holy Communion what he did Unless we believe the same thing, he said, we could not kneel together at the Lord's

Table "OK." I said, "why don't you tell me what you believe and I'll see whether that's re ally different from what I be lieve " So, he explained rather concisely what his denomina tion taught concerning the Lord's Supper When he was finished, I said, "Well, that's what I believe, too "Oh no you don't," he insisted No matter what I said. I could do nothing to shake his conviction that he could not commune with me because we believed differently PROMOTING

SPECULATIONS Isn't this what the writer of I Timothy is referring to when he criticizes those who "occupy themselves with myths and endless genealogies which promote speculations rather than

COVER STORY

No clear favorites in women's gymnastics

BY LYNN HOOGENBOOM

Track and field events have traditionally been the glamour sports during the Olympics, but a totally different area of competition may be on the verge of surpassing

Extensive coverage of the 1992 Summer Olympics airs daily on NBC through Aug 9. and the women's and men's gymnastics competitions will be featured heavily in prime time during the first week of

On the women's side both the team and the individual competitions are expected to be the toughest in years And the U.S. team may be the strongest ever

You can't call them the favorites," says Tim Daggett, an Olympic hero in 1984 and a commentator on both men s and women's gymnastics this year for NBC. "The former Soviet Union is undoubtedly the favorite for both the men and the women But the United States women do have a chance to win

The other team that is expected to be in the thick of the medal fight is Romania. "They will not be easy to beat in Barcelona, says Daggett "Also China's very strong They could be in there for the bronze And there's an interesting team from Australia

As for individual athletes. Kim Zmeskal (the 1991 world champion) and Shannon Miller (winner of the US Olympic trials) are the two names to watch as far as the Americans are concerned." says Elfi Schlegel, who is covering the women's gymnastics for NBC In addition, she suggests keeping an eye on Tatiana Gutsu (CIS), Christina Bontas (Roma nia) and Benrietta Onodi (Hungary) "Svetlana Boguinskaya (CIS) would have to be one of the favorites as well," says Schlegel "But I don't think she'll do it "

Still, Boguinskaya, 19, a gold medalist from the 1988 games in Seoul, has placed in the top three in the world champion ships every year since then, a remarkable achievement in a sport in which women tend to peak at the age of 15

I can t remember too many Russian athletes who have carried over two years, let alone two Olympics. says Schlegel "They used to dispose of them as quickly as they produced them

On the men's side, the CIS team is an overwhelming favorite, and three CIS athletes are expected to dominate Vitali Scherbo, Igor Korobn chinski and Vileri Belenki

If I had to pick now. I could pretty much pick one and two the former Soviet Union and China," says Daggett "Third is going to be a dog fight. There are a handful of teams. Germany, Japan, South Korea and the United States falls into that category as well

U.S. gymnast Kim Zmeskal is one of the favorites in the 1992 Summer Olympics. NBC is offering extensive daily coverage of the games, from July 26 through Aug. 9.

Katharine Hepburn film festival airs this week

BY FELICIA A FEASTER

American Movie Classics airs a tribute to one of the studio system's most un-dervalued stars. Katharine Hepburn, in its movie mara-thon "A Date With Kate" (AMC. mediocrity with her very presence. In order of appearance, "Quality Street" (1937) has the actress portraying a spinster who gets her one shot at love when she falls for a dashing soldier and convinces him that she's her young, effervescent niece in order to win his affection. The mistaken identity plot escapes triteness due to Hepburn's funny and touching performance. In the 1936 film "Mary of Scotland," Hepburn stars as the infamous doomed Scottish queen "Spitfire (1934) is one of the actress's earliest roles, she plays a country girl who falls for a own is a molester or seeming married man (Robert Young) ly, that rapists exist at all

Adultery is again the theme in with Hepburn playing a spirited aviatrix in love with a married British statesman (Colin Clive) Finally, George Stevens directed the enormously sweet and entertaining "Alice Adams" (1935). A real testament to Hepburn s all-out charms, "Alice" is about an insecure but determined wrong side-of-the-tracks girl who finds herself outside the social whirl but enamoured with one of its elite players (Fred MacMurray)

• Conspiracy of Silence (CBS, July 26 and 28) has its American premiere. An entire Canadian town for 16 years abetted four murderers by covering up evidence that the voung men were responsible for the brutal, stabbing mur der of a local 19-year-old Cree Indian in 1971 Though a Royal Canadian Mounted Police Of-ficer was finally able to prosecute the men, only one of the four was actually convicted in the murder "Conspiracy" taps into the depressing, endemic racism that valued the four white murderers' freedom

Here's to the future stars emerging on soaps

BY CONNIE PASSALACQUA

Being a soap opera fan at this time of year affords a unique pleasure - getting the first look at young actors who someday will become big are just kicking off their frequently teen-oriented summer story lines, in which they introduce new and exciting young faces. Here are some of the newcomers were keeping

• Ingrid Rogers (Taylor, "All My Children") Isn't Taylor a great young vixen? The ear nest, yet deeply emotional. characters comprising the Frye family - Terrence (Dondre Whitfield), Livia (Tonya Pinkins) and Lucas Barnes (Richard Lawson) have long needed a catalytic char acter, and Taylor is Pine Vallev's sassiest troublemaker · Yvette Perry (Roseanna) As the World Turns": There's something so wickedly wanton about Roseanna. She hangs her neck like an ugly duckling, yet it's obviously connected to the body of a swan Roseanna is yet another "ATWT" child with unknown parents. It seems that everyone over age 35 on this show has discovered that he or she has a previously un-Monti Sharp (David.

"Guiding Light") Here's a rare actor who generates so much electricity that it was apparent after just his first few scenes that he was going to be a big. big. star. Sharp has ex pressive eves, exquisite dic ion and just exudes command David has an as-vet-unrevealed secret that will undoubtedly complicate the lives of his newlywed sister Gillie (played by Amelia Marshall) and her husband Hamp (played by Vince Williams)

• Eric Close (Sawyer, "Santa Barbara") It's hard to make sense out of what's happening on "Santa Barbara" these days But Close is charismatic and has quite a bit of natural charm

• Ryan Philippe (Billy, "One Life to Live") His story line. concerning Billy's emerging mosexuality (not daytime's first'), was so widely pre-publicized that the poor inexperienced kid had hardly played his first scene before the glare far, however. Philippe has been quite good. Let's hope to let the actor and the story garner future acclaim on their own, without the hype

• Brent Jasmer (Sly, "The Bold and the Beautiful"): No. you re not hallucinating Jasmer does look exactly like Sylvester Stallone But as bar tender of the soap's new hot spot, the Bikini Bar, Jasmer is

the BLUES

Imagine all of the creative, fun recipes you can make with berry blue gelatin! New Jell-O* berry blue flavor gelatin was created because kids will love the delicious taste of raspberries and blueberries in a brilliant blue color. Eye-catching treats depicting sky and water themes and recipes with a patriotic flair will add FUN to family meals, children's parties or everyday snack attacks.

Start your berry blue adventure with Edible Aquarium, a supersimple recipe that's as tun to make as it is to eat. Kids will love placing gummy lish into partially set gelatin. For a party, make Edible Aquarium in small plastic cups and serve as a colorful dessert or snack.

Another delightful, easy-to-make recipe that the whole family will love is Shooting Star, which features berry blue gelatin layered with whipped topping "clouds." For a crowning touch, let little ones top the dessert with a marshmallow "star."

Two recipes that feature the delicious variety of gelatin flavors are Gelatin Lollipops and Rainbow Dessert. Children can help make their own play time snack with Gelatin Lollipops. Rainbow Dessert will be a big hit at a summer party.

Adults can use the Edible Aquarium and Shooting Star recipes to open educational discussions with youngsters about the sky and the ocean. The eye-catching presentation of each dessert is sure to capture kids' imaginations.

Try any or all of these recipes and you will see that with Jell-O berry blue gelatin, having the blues is FUN!

Gelatin Lollipops

Administration Officials Say Action Near On Wetlands Manual

alture Secretary Edward Madigan told Farm Bureau leaders meeting an Washington last week that the White House is moving deser to a solution on the wetlands issue including the release of the wetlands deineation manual

The manual, used as the guide for wetland identification, has been in the revimenths. A lengthy public comment period ended in January and the administration has been reviewing those comments, which numbered more than

What we're pushing for is not to put this thing off until after the election." Madigan said in his address to Farm Bureau's annual Council of Presidents "We want it done this year and we want it done in a farmer?

The controversial manual was issued in 1989 by the Environmental Protection Agency, Soil Conservation Service, the Army Corps of Engineers and U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service without opportunity for public comment. Farm Bureau has urged changes in the manual that provide a common and consistent method for detining and delineating wetlands

The release of the revised manual may be held up, however, by members of Congress who want the National Academy of Sciences to study the issue. An amendment passed by a House appropriations subcommittee would earmark $500,000 for an 18-month study

Farm Bureau is opposed to such a delay, but EPA Administrator William Reilly, who also addressed the Farm Bureau meeting. said the NAS study would help the process.

'If we cannot resolve the issue of delineation ourselves within the administration in a way that the scientific community accepts, perhaps we should let the National Academy of Sciences make some judg ment on this question. Reilly said The EPA chief said it was his goal to resolve the issue. "We're going to try to fix this problem, to create a delineation system that is predictable, that is clear and that doesn't take several hours - as is apparently necessary under the '91 manual -- to make a wetlands delineation call," Reilly said

He also noted his support for giving ethanol a role in the Clean Air Act, while acknowledging that many farmers are concerned that government has sent mixed

According to Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation President Dan Poulson, who testified on behalf of the American Farm Bureau Federation, dairy producers have lost millions when processors have gone bank-

"Dairy farmers are traditionally paid for the milk they produce one month after it has been received by the handler," Poulson told the subcommittee. "This leaves them financially vulnerable if the company that receives the milk experiences financial difficulty

The bankruptcy of Finevest Foods, Inc., and its subsidiaries in the Southeast illustrates the problem, Poulson said

Finevest filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy in Jack sonville, Fla., last year Among its subsidiaries were Land O'Sun Dairies, Inc., distributors of Pet brand milk products, and several other dairy processors. The unannounced bankruntev caught Land O'Sun's milk suppliers, which included more than 570 dairy farmers and several cooperatives, by surprise. They were owed an estimated $14

Poulson said the absence of a payment security program meant some of those dairy producers received only 10 cents on the dollar as a settlement

In a similar case in Wisconsin, 210 farmers who shipped milk to the Kasson cheese plant were left unpaid for $2.5 million worth of milk "It has taken three years for payment to producers and cooperatives to be made, with many farmers not re-ceiving the full value of their milk," Poulson said He pointed out that dairy producers in some cases must wait as long as 45 days after delivery before being paid by milk pro-

Dairy producers need a cessors "Part of it has to do with the way we finance and the very fact that we use that raw milk as collateral for a loan," he said.

Poulson said the lending arrangements that exist between banks and handlers jeopardize a dairy farmer's ability to get paid for the milk produced. Some handlers use up to 30 days worth of milk -- which is not paid for and is therefore a debt -- as collateral for loans

This means if a handler has a financial failure, the bank is positioned to be first to receive payment, leaving the farmer to turn to bank ruptcy proceedings to recover what he can for his milk," he added.

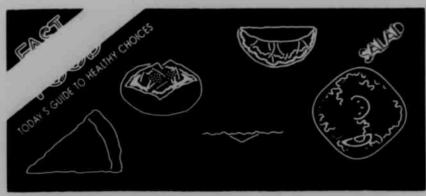

Poulson called for enactment of a trust provision whereby at the point of default or the inability (of the processor) to pay, immediately the farmer falls in line to be paid for his delivered, and as yet unpaid, product '

Federal dairy producer security legislation would limit the use of accounts payable (milk delivered but not paid for) as collateral by banks and handlers involved in such financial arrangements

The issue also is complicated by the fact that 38 states have different payment security programs, which provide varying coverage to producers whose milk is shipped across state lines Legislation is needed to encourage uniformity among the states, Poulson said. Many states with existing programs have encouraged a federal program such as this, since it would make their efforts more ef fective

Farm Bureau is calling for legislation to enact a producer security payment program patterned after the ivestock trust provisions of the Packers and Stockyards Act. This would provide a priority lien position for dairy producers by estab lishing a trust on milk product assets, sales and inventories, at the time a handler fails to make payment Poulson said Farm Bureau opposes creation of a guarantee milk checks. The issue has been addressed a number of times in the past, but has never been resolved. Language to extend the automatic trust provisions provided by the Packers and Stockvards Act to dairy had been included in the 1990 farm bill and in last year's attempt at inventory management legislation. Neither effort resulted in passage, according to John Keeling, an AFBF assistant director of national affairs. There are indications from several subcommittee members. however, that legislation may move forward next

The establishment of an automatic trust is opposed by cheese and ice cream manufacturers, who fear that current financing arrangements would be jeop-

Farmers, Scientists

Exchange Information

Scientist Dr. Douglas Spilker is trading in his white lab coat for jeans and boots as part of the American Farm Bureau's Adopt A Scientist Program. Dr. Spilker will be spending the week of July 20-23 on a 700-acre farm in Calvert County

The Adopt A Scientist Program was devaloped to improve communications and the flow of information between scientists and farmers. The exchange program places leading scientists on farms across the United States and provides the host family an opportunity to visit the company's research facilities. The program opens a dialogue between scientist and farmer which promotes a better, more practical understanding of one another's

The 700-acre host farm is owned by J. Allen and Pat Swann. Their family raises fruits, vegetables, tobacco and small grains. Dr. Spilker is a State Regulatory Affairs Specialist with Miles, Inc. in Kansas City, Mo. He has advanced degrees in plant pathology, state and federal regulations and biological

The Adopt A Scientist Program was developed in 1988 with eight scientist/host family exchanges completed Last year, 23 scientists from eight companies completed the program in 16 states. Adopt A Scientist is a program of the American Farm Bureau Women's Committee.

Is agriculture really "killing the world?" question clings to the fibers of John Charles Wilson's mind like stubborn seeds inside a Tennessee cotton

The Tennessee farmer found himself asking that question after reading a blanket indictment of agriculture by Jay Hair, head of the National Wildlife Fed eration. Leaping from page 15 of "Progressive Farmer magazine was Hair's statement, "This big, booming business, agriculture, is also killing the world I mean that literally.

Wilson had heard similar statements before, but why, he wondered, were people making such charges about his chosen vocation - one that feeds and clothes the world? In wrestling with the question, he discovered proof was lacking. Wilson wanted answers

He began talking with other area farmers about how best to tackle the question from a farmer-up, grassroots level. An active conservationist, Wilson presented the dilemma to soil conservation officials in his and neighboring counties. and a plan sprouted

"We decided to try to find out just how agriculture is impacting our environment," he says.

If agriculture-related runoff has a negative effect on the environment, many agree it certainly would be in Wilson's area of West Tennessee -- where 80-85 percent of the soil is classified as highly erodible, and one of the main crops is cotton, a crop that requires a puts

Today, descending the banks of a drainage ditch separating two of his cotton fields, Wilson puts his hands on part of the Beaver Creek project -- a model project described as the most intensive field-scale assessment ever conducted of agricultural runoff's environmental impact

"If we find out that we have a problem, we are going to correct it with best management practices (BMPs) -- terraces, reduced tillage or other conservation practices -- or whatever the appropriate technology might be. Wilson says. "If we don't have the problems we are being told. or in the magnitude we are being told, we are going to be able to make some statements about that.

This project was started by production farmers We had the idea and it grew from there. It did not start from an agency coming to the farmers, but the farmers going to the agencies That is one of the real important parts about this project Farmers have concerns about what we are doing to our environment We want to know what we are doing."

The Beaver Creek project is named for the 95,450-acre watershed in which it is located. The project is composed of a half dozen computerized monitoring sites in the water shed Samples of field run off are collected at five minute intervals through out the duration of a rain storm Compared to monitoring methods used else where, Beaver Creek's in tensive scientific assess ment has reduced probable errors in calculations of sediment, nutrient and pesticide transport by a factor

Survey (USGS), the Soil Conservation Service (SCS), Clemson University, Memphis State University, the University of Tennessee, the Tennessee Department of Conservation and the Tennessee Department of Agriculture, to name a few "I think this is the be ginning of research that will tell us finally what the significant facts are about agriculture and the environment," says AFBF President Dean Kleckner, who farms in Iowa. "I think we have to do this in a number of other places around the country so we can form a national outlook - something of national significance. This is going to tell us a lot."

Even with endorsements and all its multiagency credibility, the Beaver Creek project hinges on the voluntary cooperation of Wilson and a number of his neighboring Tennessee farmers

We are telling USGS what we are applying to our land, as far as pesticides and nutrients, in what rates, at what time and to what crops," Wilson explains "They are looking for those pesticides during a storm event. They are also looking for sediment load-

"We are looking for an After storm runoff samples are gathered from a ditch bed adjacent to crop fields, they are sent to the laboratory for an analysis industries that might affect of sediments, nutrients and pesticides

In addition to specialized monitoring and farmer participation, one other aspect makes the Beaver Creek project unique, according to Angel Roman-Mas, a re search hydrologist with the broad-based project "that no USGS who is project chief one could say was being impacted by chemical com-

at Beaver Creek We have assembled a group of scientists and researchers within the program, including people in the areas of aquatic toxicology, aquatic chemistry, hydrology, geomorphology and he said. "One of the project's strengths is the fact that we are able to cover all these multiple disciplines of investigation and assemble them into one single research program. Six months of background work to develop the project's infrastructure and verify its validity, and two vears worth of solid, scientific data now are under the bridge Analysis of the data

Stephen Klaine, an aquatic toxicologist at Clemson University who helped design the research project while at Memphis State University, now is overseeing a portion of that analysis He says it is too early to come up with conclusive results, but he ex pects the project to help answer the question of agriculture's impact on the environment, and how specifically-prescribed BMPs positively affect water qual-

Farmer participants in the project such as Wilson will be able to put their heads on the information and, if possible, alter their practices accordingly

The concept of technology transfer at the grass roots level is really exciting tome," Klaine says. "I think previous work in agricultural source pollution has always been from the (topdown) regulatory level

"We have found large amounts of sediment are exported out of this watershed," Roman-Mas says. "Perhaps sediment is the most single important problem in West Tennessee,, in particular the Beaver Creek watershed. Certainly we need to devise BMPs -- to avoid soil erosion.

Some of this sediment is due to ditch bank erosion caused by "hungry water" -- a phenomenon that occurs when clean field runoff takes on sediment after it reaches the ditch As BMPs reduce field erosion and runoff becomes even cleaner, lower levels of field sediment could be offset somewhat by more sediment from ditch erosion Roman-Mas says pesticide transport at Beaver Creek "is almost a chance situation.

'If you have an intensive rainfall event right after application of pesticide you get some export," he says "However, if you don't have that event, certainly you will not export that much, if any. There's an effective use of pesticides within the fields

'We have found that most of the nitrogen is exported in the form of suspended organic nitrogen (in plant material). While the nitrogen export is significant, it is not associated with the application of fertilizers Phosphorous exports from the fields is negligible

Overall, Wilson and other farmers in the water. shed are encouraged by these trends, and are eager to see some final conclusions The project's next step is to assess the effectiveness of specific BMPs and how they benefit the watershed environment.

Klaine sees a need for information beyond Beaver Creek It is important to scientifically assess the actual presence of water quality problems before solutions are prescribed and implemented

I think that by using the Beaver Creek project as a model, similar projects around the country could be initiated," he says Again, grassroots -- one farmer, one soil conservation district -- and it is not impossible to do. If we can show we have made an impact or we have made a change in water quality from the Beaver Creek project, maybe other projects around the country will also be initiated and also have impact. It may seem like a small step, but one watershed at a time is going to make the differ ence in the long term

'We have noticed that the water coming out of my no-till cotton was probably 20 to 30 shades clearer than the water coming out of my conventional-till cotton," he

Wilson and other farmers are hopeful the Beaver Creek project will clear up some misconceptions about agriculture and the environment They believe preliminary results indicate agriculture is not "killing the world," but they also know "preliminary" is not good enough

We want to be able to make a statement about agriculture that can be backed up by facts, in black and white," Wilson says That is the reason we got into this project. We do not want someone to go out and make a statement about agriculture which cannot be backed up by facts.

"Jay Hair's statement was a sensational-type statement. That is what he meant it to be. I am sorry he made it. I know this project will prove him wrong. I think it has already.

Doctors, Hospitals Not Keen On Government Involvement

The need to shift health are costs to other patients not responsible for those osts is a trend that dis turbs physicians and health are professionals. It is trend caused largely by mandates in governme sponsored health plans

Health care officials speaking at a recent health lucted by the American Farm Bureau Federation, view the necessity of cost shifting in their operations as a sign of how the U.S. government would likely mismanage the health care system under a national health insurance plan

A representative of the Mayo Clinic told the confer unteers and staff members that standard fees at his institution could be reduced. 15 percent if cost shifting was not needed to balance financial inequities

Smoldt, a member of the Rochester, Minn base delinic's board of trust ees, outlined several reform proposals supported by his institution Smoldt said the public needs greater controrover medicar costs

He said Mayo's reform proposal includes the establishment of a basic level of insurance for all citizens. It would include the individual freedom to purchase ser vices above the basic insurance level, with options to seek services outside the existing coverage plan In addition, the Mayo proposal would include in entives for efficiency and quality of care provided greater emphasis on wellness and better information on when to use technology to extend life, adtion and research to ensure future improvement in health care, more emphasis n quality assurance and ethical standards, and cost ontrol steps such as malpractice reform to reduce defensive medicine actions inproved testing of mew technologies to determine when patients actually benefit, limiting state insurance mandates from exceeding basic levels and uniform claim forms for all players

Dr. Jane Orient, executive director of the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons, bases her lack of enthusiasm for national health insurance, in part, on cost shifting

Orient, who practices internal medicine, said it is ncorrect to believe that health coverage for all will cure the ills of the U.S. system She said the main problem is that we "have too much insurance." That insurance, however, is not really insurance, but instead a system of "pre-payment for the consumption of what we call health care

Although she was quick to recommend early intervention for dinesses such as hypertension and breast cancer, she also contended early intervention practices more than they ultimately save and should not be covered by insurance

Insurance is for things that you don't want." she explained "You don't want your house to burn down You don't want somebody to steal your car and you don't want to die early

She was also critical of the care priorities extended by health maintenance organizations (HMOs), saying HMOs "provide more and that everybody wants and less and less of the things that insurance is supposed to cover It's like having insurance against the need to paint your house that pays absolutely nothing if your house burns to the ground. Orient said that mental ity has followed in controversial new health service plans, such as the new plan in Oregon, which ranks ill nesses in order of impor

At the top of the list it has things like going to the doctor for things like preventive maintenance," she explained. "And at the bot tom of the list it has people with cancer, people with cerebral palsy -- sick people."
What this amounts to,

according to Orient, is taking money from people who are sick to provide services for people who are healthy Healthy people, she contended, ought to pay for less costly preventive services because they have much more control over the pro cedures. She compares these perceived inequities to those experienced under socialized medicine

"In Canada you can get free cough medicine if you have a cold, but if your kidneys fail, or you have leuke mia, or you need heart sur gery, or you need a (brain) scan to rule out a brain tumor, it's a different story

Enrollment In Wetlands Program Exceeds Target

Farmers in nine states intend to offer nearly 500,000 acres -- nearly 10 times the 50,000 acre goal to be enrolled in the wet lands reserve program approved by Congress last

Secretary of Agriculture Edward Madigan said This strong interest in the wetlands reserve program shows the environmenta commitment and responsi bility of American farmers

During the recent sign up period for the program 2,730 landowners in nine pilot states (California Iowa Louisiana Minnesota mississippi, Missouri, New York, North Carolina and Wisconsin) told their Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service county offices they were in terested in offering 466,000

acres for enrollment

Mark Maslyn, an American Farm Bureau Federa tion assistant director of national affairs, said that over the next 60 days the Soil Conservation Service and the Fish and Wildlife Service will develop restoration plans for the acreage offered He said the plans will serve as the basis for landowners to submit bids to the ASCS for enrollment in the program that it wanted to assess pro ducer interest in the program, voted June 20 to eliminate wetland funding for the next fiscal year Madigan said USDA will proceed with wetlands enrollment with the $46.6 million available this year, and will seek to restore funding in the Senate for fiscal year 1993 The Senate has yet to act on this measure

The 1990 farm bill au thorized the wetlands rerve program and estab lished a goal of acquiring easements and restoring up to one million acres by 1995 Under the program, USDA will pay landowners ease ment costs for accepted acre age, plus 75 percent of costs for work approved to restore the land to healthy wetlands condition Enrolled acreage must be kept permanently as wetlands, under the su pervision of ASCS Farmers who are ac cepted into the program this vear will receive annual payments despite questions about funding for future acquisitions, Maslyn said

SCS Reviewing Conservation Plans

The Soil Conservation Service has begun comparing the operations of the farmers' conservation plan to verify that they are imple menting the erosion control measures they scheduled when they developed their plans

"Although status reviews' were conducted last year 1992 is the next progressive step toward imple mentation," said Robert Klumpe, state conservationist. "In 1991, our objective was to help the producers understand their plans. In 1992, we have to assume that producers understand their plans when actively applying them according to decisions or practices identified in the plan

Klumpe continued, "SCS ersonnel are conducting status reviews on five per cent of randomly selected farms in each county Farmers who received variances last year will have their operations checked again this year, as well as, farmers who are not implement ing their conservation plans. Anytime we become aware that a producer is not actively applying a plan. review Producers have until the end of the calendar year to get back on schedule in their plans or we have no other choice but to refer them to ASCS as not actively applying their plan Provisions of the 1985 and 1990 farm bills state that farmers with highly erodible land must: 1) De velop a conservation plan 2) Apply the plan according to its schedule, and 3) Fully implement the plan by 1995 in order to remain eligible for most USDA programs Successful implementa tion of the farm bill respon sibilities is our highest pri ority. Klumpe said "SCS must take this responsibility seriously to monitor the progress made by produc-

Gov. Schaefer Announces Reorganization at MDA

Governor William Donald Schaefer has announced a streamlining of functions at the Maryland Department of Agriculture designed to improve efficiency and services during these difficult bud getary times

"Using ideas from em loyees, Secretary Rober, Walker has done a good job of utilizing his staff and improving the visibility of his program,"Governor Schaefer

The changes at agriculture involve the consolidation of functions by creating a Marketing Team aspart of the Office of the Secretary. combining Aquaculture Development and Seafood Mar keting and reassigning Egg Inspection and Grading Ser vices to the Animal Health unit which is now called Food Safety and Consumer Ser

During the past year, the Department of Agriculture has eliminated several mana gerial positions and instituted cross-training of staff to im proveefficiency

"As always, our goal is to upgrade our service to the agricultural community and the consumers of Maryland I feel confident that these organizational changes wil help us work smarter. We will continue to evaluate all our programs in an effort to make them better," Walker

Earwigs - Population Explosion I am now getting several calls a day about a black bug with pinchers. The Earwig is a common insect in the garden and around the home. Their most common characteristic feature is the pair of pinchers at the tip of the abdomen. They are reddish-brown and about 3/4 inch long. Earwigs have a varied diet. Some are primarily predators, feeding on aphids insect larvae and snails. They also eat plant material such as seedling vegetables, flowers, fruit and foliage. Earwigs are considered a nuisance pest, and only cause significant damage to plants when populations are high. To minimize Earwig problems indoors, keep ares close to the house clear of debris and hiding places. Earwigs can be controlled by spraying with malathion, methoxychlor or diazinon. If you prefer not to use an insecticide, the Earwig can be controlled by persistent trapping. A simple trap can be made using a tuna or cat food can. Add 1/2 inch vegetable oil and place them around the area where the Earwig are living. They will fall into the can and drown. Another trap is a moistened, rolled up newspaper. Earwigs will go into the paper. In the morning, shake them into soapy water to kill them Con tinue this procedure until you're no longer catching them Crop Notes

A New Gypsy Moth Out West A "close cousin" of the European Gypsy Moth that we are familiar with has jumped ship in the west coast parts. It's the Asian Gypsy Moth. However, compared to its Asian cousin, the moth common to our area may be a wimp. The Asian moth is more dangerous for several reasons:

The female Asian moth is capable of flying up to 20-40 miles and does so before she lays her eggs. The European moth is incapable of flight.

The Asian moth eats a much wider variety of food, about 500 species of plants. This could spell doom for the northwest timber industry. The Asian Gypsy Moth is hardier than the European, known to over-winter in the extreme cold of

Council On Competitiveness Battles Against Regulation

The goal of the White McIntosh said That is why House Council on Competitiveness is to strike down unnecessary regulations that impede economic growth, its director told Farm Bureau leaders in Washington last week

The council, chaired by Vice President Dan Quayle, has the responsibility of reviewing old and new regulations and plays a role in general policy development as a subcommittee of the president's Cabinet, David McIntosh said in a speech during the Council of Presidents meeting McIntosh said, "Many regulations in the past 20 years have had a dramatic effect on private property. He said the council has five principles it follows when reviewing regulations The first principle is to protect the free market. Second, if the marketplace doesn't work, it must be appropriate for the government to step in, McIntosh said. Third, when government intervenes to address a problem, it is important to reduce the cost to all in-

The fourth principle is that where possible the government should use market-based approaches. Protection of private property rights is the fifth principle Today many of the government activities never take physical use of the land. Economic use is denied just as much as in a physical taking of the land,

More Soybean And Wheat Acres Planted This Year By Maryland Farmers

Maryland agricultural producers have been faced with a cool spring this year with slightly below normal rainfall until two weeks ago when precipitation has been lighter. This has allowed most producers to get plantings completed ahead of normal Corn growers planted 550,000 acres of corn for all purposes, the same acreage that was planted the past three years Corn for grain is expected to be harvested from 450,000 acres, also the same as the past three years. Soybean acreage planted and to be planted is expected to be 555,000 acres, nine percent more than the 510,000 acres planted in 1991. Soybeans are expected to be harvested from 545,000 acres, up from the 500,000 harvested in 1991.

PMH Joins With Aurora Community For Breath Testing

An effort is underway by people in the Aurora area to focus on breathing problems Members of the Eglon Southern States Advisory Board. in conjunction with Union Ambulance and the Aurora and Mt. Grove volunteer fire departments, have asked Preston Memorial Hospital (PMH) to conduct breathing tests on July 29.

Breathing problems affect any in North Central West Virginia, and PMH is home of the only hospital-based black lung and breathing center in the state. The respiratory experts at PMH say that not only miners, but farmers and people in other natural resources industries may need to stay aware of their breathing capacity They said they were "very impressed" by the efforts of a community group in Union Harsh, to study breathing problems of farmers and other workers

Dave Reckart, director of respiratory therapy at PMH, will bring special equipment, to the Aurora Fire Hall on that Wednesday evening to give people 'baseline spirometry" readings. He is supported by Carolyn Tichnell, director of the Northern Mountaineer Black Lung and Breathing Center

I can tell from being around people who spend a lot of time in barns that our community has a high number of respiratory problems. said Mrs. Harsh

Mrs. Harsh did something about her concern by calling ameeting of interested people in the community last year She had experts on agricultural air quality speak to the group One brought along an air tester which discovered high levels of air contaminants in a barn.

The Eglon Southern States Advisory Board then picked up the issue as a roject and had Dr. Mario C. Battagelli, director of the Institute of Occupational Health and Safety at West Virginia University School of Medicine, speak

"Dr Battagelli suggested we have this spirometry clinic," said Mrs Harsh "He thinks that people at risk of having respiratory problems, such as farmers, should have a baseline test

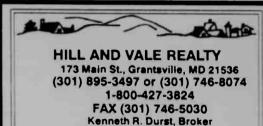

In addition to the tests. there will be information available on respiratory prob lems The Preston County Chapter of the American Can cer Society will also have an information table

The event will start at ? p.m., at the Aurora fire hall For more information, per sons may contact Rose Ina Harsh at 735-5709 or Jean Winters at 735-5763 Preston Memorial is willing to discuss conducting similar test ing clinics in other areas Those interested should contact Phil Schenk at 789-6420

Support Group Forming In TA

A support group for divorced, separated, or persons working on a troubled marriage is being organized in Terra Alta. The group will be meeting each Thursday at 2 p.m. at the Terra Alta Church of the Nazarene, located along the Brandonville Pike. Discussions will be led by Pastor Rick McCartney All interested persons are welcome to attend

Father Of Steel Drum Is Member Of WVU Faculty

MORGANTOWN, W Va Steel drums, increasingly popular instruments among jazz and pop musicians, are being produced in Morgan town - by the man who in vented them on the isle of Trinidad in the early 1940s.

Known among percussionists as the father of the steel drum, Ellie Mannette. joined the faculty at West Virginia University last semester and has a studio deep in the school's Creative Arts Center -- far enough from violin and piano rehearsal rooms so that the thunderous sound of hammers pounding new steel drums into shape won't distract other

Mannette is the first international percussionist in what Professor of Music Phil Faint envisions as a WVU World Music Performance Center Faini has been the university spercussion stud es expert for 31 years, and he has done considerable re search on music of other cultures and wants to make WVU a center to promote international music

At 65, Mannette is preocupied with pertecting the steel drum into a consistently tuned instrument that can take its place among such orchestral standards as tympani and marimbas. He hopes to tap the research capabilities of WVU, working with scientists to perfect the instrument's physical and metallurgical properties to improve its tonal qualities

Meanwhile, he steaching students to build, tune and play these instruments, which are still made from 🥌 gallon oil drums

His search for legitimacy for his invention may have roots in his childhood experiences on Trinidad In fact, if young Ellie Mannette hadn t been ridiculed by neighbors and chased by the Trinidadian police when he and his friends took up bang

In the early 1940s, he and his young friends were considered outcasts and renshunned by neighbors be cause of the raucous sounds they created Today, Mannette is a well known and respected authority on steel drums with clients across the ountry, including the U.S. Navy Steel Drum Band, who have commissioned him to tune and build the instru-

From the time I made my first drum, I wanted to see the instrument become part of a symphony," Mannette said. "It really gave me a thrill - I don't know why, it wasn't beautiful at that

In fact, the first steel drum music wasn't at all what it is today Steel drums were simple rhythm instruments when Mannette and his friends, as he describes them wayward boys,"were making a racket all day and allnight

But the instrument. which Mannette calls "pan" evolved. At first, he and his friends pounded garbage can bettomsoutward with broom handles into a convex surtare Astheboysplayed, they noticed that dents in the surface produced notes *One guy finally got four notes -- not pitches. According to Sanford, part of the increase in interest in Frostburg State is due to "having a higher profile. No longer are we hearing people ask. Where's Frost-

The change in profile has come from the University's high rating in Money Maga zine, the completion of 1-68, and the college's change to university status in 1987, he

While a recent article in the Washington Post reported a five-year decline in applica tions has hit "area colleges of every type," Frostburg is experiencing just the opposite

In 1988, FSU had 2,325 applicants, compared to 3,303 currently in for 1992; a 30

While many college officials cite the "baby bust" for the dip in applications, otherspoint towards skyrocket ing costs

major impact on education, said Sanford. "The schools that people had once looked at automatically, more families are taking a second look Our competitors are sometimes two to three times more expensive, but the academic programs are comparable

The continual increase in tuition at many private schools and larger institutions, is having a positive impact on many smaller, less expensive schools, he said

Costs are having a significant impact on all admis-

of Admissions Edge Deuel When you look at the applications at community colleges, they are going out of sight There probably isn't a community college in Mary land that hasn't had some type of increase," he said

The competitive nature of attracting diminishing numbers of students is having higher education take a different approach to admissions than that of a decade ago. In Maryland, for example, there has been a 26 percent decrease in the last 10 years of the number of high school graduates

The days of having a grey-haired dean profoundly advise on life has changed," said Sanford "Now it's a question of marketing The college admissions office needs to be concerned with positioning Andour position has become stronger

Frostburg, whose enroll ment hovers around 5,000. enacted a University of Mary land System-wide increase in tuition costs this year. However, in-state tuition, room and board is $6,368, one of the lowest rates of the area's four-year institutions

'Many students are look ing at us because we provide an opportunity for them to have a residential college experience, with all the football teams and marching bands but still be close to home.

lason Groves Is Again Nominated To Who's Who

Jason Groves, a senior at Southern High School, has been nominated for the third time to "Who's Who Among American High School Students

While only five percent of the nation's high school students are included in Who's Who" each year, less than one-half of one percent are honored two or more years.

Jason is the son of Steve and Debra Cowgill, Oakland.

COUNTRY KIDS by Danielle DeBerry

The July meeting of the Country Kids was held at the Pysell residence after we had taken a farm tour of five different farms. At these farms the 4-Her's gave a demon stration on their animal(s) they were taking to the fair Afterwards there was a brief meeting held at the Pysell's house followed by a picnic. We are to be thinking of ideas for the float and for the booth

Bryan Barnard gave a report on 4-H camp and Danielle gave a report on state speeches. Those giving demonstrations were: April Clemnings on rabbits, Scott Watkins on trimming lambs feet, Danielle DeBerry on showing a steer, Jamie DeBerry on grooming a steer. Aurther Pysell on sheep and pigs, and Sarah Pysell on sheep and goats and Jamie

Bartlett, Hattery Debate Various Issues In County

Questions were fielded concerning a myriad of political issues Friday evening as Sixth District Congressional candidates Delegate Tom Hattery (D.-Frederick) and Republican Roscoe Bartlett, also of Frederick County, met at Garrett Community College Friday in the first of series of debates planned throughout the Western Maryland region.

The condidates began the forum by introducing themselves and briefly explaining their platforms. They were then each given a specified amount of time to respond to questions from the audience about issues concerning Western Maryland, the state, and the nation.

The candidates were first asked to reveal their positions on reproductive choice, and Bartlett responded by saying that "abortion has gone too far, and should not e used for sex selection and Later in the debate, he reinforced his position by soying that the "unlimited application of Roe vs. Wade is not what the average

Hattery prefaced his response by stating, "It's very difficult to tell where he is on this issue because he has changed his position several times." Hattery then said, The government should stay out of this issue. It is a decision that should be based on

"Charley's Aunt" To Be Presented By GLAF At GCC August 5-8 her English and theater

by Joan Crawford

"Charley's Aunt," a rol-licking British comedy by Brandon Thomas, will be the next offering of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival in the Garrett Community College auditorium August 5, 6, 7, and 8, at 8 p.m. Directed by Jane Avery, the play will feature all local actors, most of whom have appeared in previous dramatic and musical productions.

Set in late 19th century England, the play is a delightful farce about Victorion social propriety that forbids young ladies and gentlemen from enjoying one another's company without a chaperon. When two college students, Jack Chesney and Charley Wykeham, invited two young ladies to luncheon thinking there to provide the necessary supervision and the aunt is delayed, a major problem arises. Using their best powers of persuasion, the two young men convince their pal Lord Fancourt Babberly to portray the old lady, leading to a hilarious tangle of mistaken identity. The imposter aunt is courted by two older gentlemen before the real aunt arrives and all ends

Jane Avery, who holds a master's degree in theater arts from the University of Pittsburgh and who is recognized in drametic circles as Garrett County's "first lady of theater," brings to her directing the same vibrant energy with which she teaches classes at Southern High School. In her 20 years of theater work in this area,

she has directed over 40 plays, tions "Harvey," "Blithe Spirit," "Our Town," and offered free to the public "The decline in American literacy,"Trelease declares, is due in large part to the fact that two-thirds of our children no longer want to read. No player in the NBA was born wanting to pley haskethall. So, too, the desire to read must be plented. It is • fact that reading aloud to a child is the oldest, cheapest, Continued on Page A-15

Wiseman Pleads Guilty To Robbery: PSI Is Ordered

Terry J. Wisemen, 36, Oakland, pleaded guilty to the charge of robbery last week in Garrett County Circuit Court. Judge Fred A. Theyer accepted the plea, revoked the bail, and ordered a pre-sentence investigation for the defendant. Wiseman is accused of robbing the First United National Bank and Trust in Oakland on January 7 of this year.

Two other charges egainst the defendant that were not prosecuted were theft and assault and battery. Wiseman reportedly entered the bank at approximately 1 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 7, and handed a note to teller Gretchen Rush. The note read, "I have a gun. I want $6,000 now or you die!" According to the court document, Wiseman said to Mrs. Rush, "I mean it, you'll die." and "I have a gun."

The teller laid a stack of money on the counter, later determined to be $3,950, and the defendant took the money and left the bank. The money contained a packet of "bait money," which is a series of bills with recorded serial numbers. Photographs were taken of the defendant during the robbery, and were published in The Republican on the following Thursday. At Public Meeting The mayor and town council of Oakland will hold a special public meeting on Monday, August 3, at 8 p.m. in the town hall. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the proposed plan for the Bradley Manor area. Mayor Asa McCain indicated that the plan is the result of several months of discussion and meetings between the town, the Department of Housing and Urban Development, and the Oakland Associates (which consists of several Baltimore area businessmen), among others. The various groups were ordered by a Baltimore court judge to come to a fate of the Bradley Manor area. The plan was to be formulated in a way that would satisfy all parties involved and would provide affordable housing in Oakland.

The mayor noted that the plan has been formulated for some time and has been discussed at several town meetings. This public meeting will most likely be the last time it is discussed. McCain said

Finzel Family Escapes Burning House Monday

A Finzel area family escaped from their burning house without injury early Monday morning after a blaze broke out in the basement of their Grevel Hill Road residence.

Mrs. Cherles Rosenberger told Eastern Garrett VFD Chief Marsh Smith that she was awakened shortly after 1 a.m. by coughing by her husband and teenage son. Mrs. Rosenberger awakened them and she and her son escaped the house via the door and porch, while Mr. Rosenberger exited the house through a window.

Eastern Garrett, along with Shaft and Frostburg fire fighters, were alerted et 1:06 a.m. Marsh said that most of the fire was confined to the basement area and appeared to have originated on top of a hot water heater. There was damage in a bathroom area and the ceiling of the basement. while the kitchen area sustained some heat damage. Frostburg Area Ambulance also responded to the scene. There were no injuries reported.

Fire fighters remained on the scene for about two hours.

The Garrett County

Community Outreach Program To Begin In Garrett County

A community outreach program is currently being developed by the Garrett County Health Department for the purpose of assessing and serving the health needs of the county's outlying communities, thus increasing the use of health services.

Ann Sherrard, nutritionfor the Garrett County Health Department, this week explained to the Garrett County Commissioners the program and how it is to be implemented, stating that staff members are currently attempting to determine the "natural gathering areas" throughout the county as outreach

She also reported that the department is searching for outreach volunteers from each of the designated areas to serve as information gatherers and liaisons between the health department and the community members. Those volunteers, people who are well-known in their respective communities, would work on a parttime basis. In addition, a search is being conducted for the coordinator of the program.

"We want to target audiences that are not using the existing health services, said Sherrard, adding, "Even when programs are in place, people may not access them. The program will be maintained through targeted case formula funding earmarked for new program initiatives by the state, which mandates the money not be spent on existing programs.

Sherrard emphasized, however, that this type of initiative "puts life back into the old programs" by identifying those in need of the existing services, such as WIC (Women, Infants, and Children program), diabetes education, addictions, and mental, environmental, and home health. Sherrard noted that these programs are "under-utilized."

She also noted that the community outreach program has been used successfully in urban areas, and that it will be adapted to suit the rural nature of Garrett County

Garrett County Health Officer Dr Rex Archer also spoke to the commissioners about the program, saying that "in many ways, this concept is not new - this is what the public health worker of 25 to 30 years ago used to do.

Archer then said, "The trend in public health re-cently has been for categorical funding, and the needs of family units were not being

Education Board To Pilot Alternate Education Plan

The Garrett County Board of Education recently approved the piloting of an "alternate education program" for students in the middle and high schools who are on the verge of expul-

Wilda Massi, principal of Northern Middle School; Jack Rickman, principal of Southern Middle; and Al Coviello, director of pupil services, attended the board's recent monthly meeting and presented their ideas for the new program which would assist the principals in dealing with children who have already been disciplined in all methods available and yet continue to break the school rules.

The rationale behind the alternate educational program is to enable the schools to offer a different structure organization, and program to students who are on the brink of being expelled. The program would be a visible demonstration to the parents that the local school officials are willing to "go an extra mile" to work with students and parents in seeking solutions to student problems without wavering on the education officials' commitment to have safe schools with high standards of student conduct.

"Children - all people - need to realize that there will always be a consequence to their actions," Mrs. Massi said. "We are actually pursuing this program in the name of justice. All students. handicapped or not, need to realize that they must follow certain rules or they will suffer some sort of consequence. It is very important to their development as young people.

Students would be offered an opportunity to attend the alternate program in place of being expelled from school. (Students who have been dangerous act would not be eligible for this program.) These programs would be held in various school system buildings, but the children would be removed from the regular school area.

In the high schools, the evening school would be expanded so that additional courses would be added as needed to accommodate these students. The intent would be to offer each placed student enough classes to keep him her on the graduation timeline on which he/she needed to be. The principals noted that this would not be possible in every case.

The student would be placed in this program for a specified period of time and would not be eligible to participate in extra-curricular and/or interscholastic activities.

The middle school program would have to be established at the Board of Education building, according to the principals. It would also offer specific classes for the placed stu-dents and would have a built-in behavior management component which would be the gauge to determine when a student is ready to return to the mid-

The principals noted that expulsion is sometimes the only avenue left for a student, but that this action does little to teach the child any redeeming lesson.

"We want to keep these kids in the system but remove them from the actual schoolroom setting," Coviello

The board voted to try the program as a pilot, as several details must be worked out. Staffing will be contingent upon the vacancies which exist and subsequent transfers that will take place. The plan is to assemble an "oversight" committee consisting of the two principals, the director of secondary education, Coviello, and the teacher. The committee will meet regularly and determine the direction for the new program.

GARRETT COMMUNITY COLLEGE McHenry, MD

GCC Hit Again...

Once again Garrett Community College has taken it on the chin in the latest round of state budget cuts, as it was learned a few weeks ago that another $118,000 would be axed from GCC's allocation. This figure represented 40 percent of a total cut to the county of approximately $280,000, as the health department, sheriff's office, and board of education will be forced to absorb most of the remainder. These cuts were made just two weeks into the new fiscal year.

While we have concern for most county agencies experiencing these budget shortfalls, we are par eularly concerned about our community college. the value of post-high school education cannot be over emphasized, especially in our ever changing world of technology, and GCC is a gateway to the future for many local people who probably would not or could not continue their education if the college were not in existence. It has been the spring board that has launched so many Garrett County citizens into the realm of higher education, and thus into brighter personal futures

Because of its strong and competent leadership, the college has advanced into new educational frontiers, and now boasts the only academic program in adventure sports available in the country, or the world, for that matter

The value of the college is certainly not limited to the education it provides. It is also an integral part of the local cultural and entertainment programs that have become such a popular segment of life in Garrett County. It has been, for example, one of the driving forces behind the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival.

The college also provides a central, easy-access, county base for public meetings, hearings, and lectures

From an economic standpoint it would be difficult to assess just what the college means to Garrett County, but it is most certainly significant. Not only does it provide employment for a number of persons, but it also brings in many students from outside the county, all of whom support the local economy.

Dr. Steve Herman, the board of trustees, the faculty, and staff have all pulled together and done a tremendous job in coping with the many budget cuts GCC has confronted in the past few years. Dr. Herman told the county commissioners this week that, once again, they would be able to weather this latest cut. However, such teamwork concessions can be stretched only so far We sincerely hope that the governor and his financial advisors can figure out a way to halt further cuts to our community colleges

If there are further reductions this fiscal year, perhaps our county commissioners can come up with some extra support for GCC. Surely they recognize its importance to Garrett County.

The U.S. Senate is expected to vote soon whether to override President Bush's veto of S. 250, the National Voter Registration Act, also known as motor voter. The League of Women Voters calls on all Americans to contact their senators and urge them to vote to override the veto. The Senate passed the bill on May 20 by a vote of 61 to 38. Sixty-seven votes are needed to override the veto.

This measure is critical in extending voter registration rights to all Americans Not only does it allow the 90 percent of Americans with driver's license to apply to register to vote when they apply for, or renew, their license, it also gives Americans with disabilities and others who are shut out of the registration process the opportunity to apply to register to vote at the agencies which serve their needs, making the process more convenient and

Among the 29 states already using this simple, uniform voter registration system, there have been no reported cases of fraud. The national voter legislation includes provisions that would strengthen anti-fraud protections Addi-tionally, states with motor voter programs actually reduce registration costs over the long term.

Motor voter is supported by a coalition of more than 65 diverse organizations, including the League, the American Association of Retired Persons, the Disabled American Veterans the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the American Bar Association We represent groups who believe that the constitutionally protected right to vote is the foundation of our nation's

Olympic Observations (and dreams of gagging a few commentators) by Mary Sincell McEwen

After watching some incredibly talented, powerful, precise, and dedicated young Olympians dare gravity on things such as balance beams and uneven bars, I have decided that I could enjoy the performances a whole lot more if I didn't have to hear insipid remarks from the commentators. Boy, I get tired of those people gasping every time one of the girls teeters the absolute tiniest bit (or "bobbles," one of the many favorite buzz words of these same irritants). They act as if the world will now come to an end because one of the little gymnasts dipped her left shoulder one eighth of an inch for one sixteenth of a second.

"Oh, no!" they gasp. "Well, that's it. She may have very well just blown her chances for 'medaling' (another campy buzz word) in this event. It's a shame because she's worked for this since she was seven months old and her family had to sell her brother to get her here to Barcelona and blah blah blah . . " all this going on while the teenager is working her heart out to complete an excellent routine that would put any of those aging tubby sportscasters to shame. But they don't let up. The same athlete can later in the evening jump from a standing position, do three somersaults in the air and land on her pinky finger, yet the commentators will still go on and on about her earlier "bobble" that ruined her life.

Then there was the young swimmer who reaped shame upon herself, family, and country by taking a silver (shudder) in a meet Sunday. By the way the commentators were wailing, you would have thought she'd been caught popping pills and cavorting with the judges. She was hanging her head and her coach's face held the expression of one who was suffering from the world's scariest case of indigestion. The girl got a silver medal in the Olympics, for Pete's sake! That's more than most people will ever dream of, so get off her back, please, unless you're going to pat it. (Another young American won a bronze Monday night - once again, the commentator actually said what a "devastating loss" it was. Give that child a break, please!)

After Kim Zmeskal slipped off of the balance beam Sunday night. I thought the announcers were going to openly weep. Her fall really was surprising and unfortunate, certainly agree with that. But she went on to do incredible feats on the unevens, vault, and in the floor exercise, redeeming her fall with grace under immense pressure. Later, while replaying her fall for about the 91st time, one woman commentator actually had the nerve to say, she could've recovered that." Thank you, ma am, for that insightful, empathetic comment. Not

I'll bet these athletes sometimes wish they could convey to the general public how their lives are so completely obsessed with their sport, and how viewers really never understand the dedication and determination they, the Olympians, live with every day. Here we sit on our couches watching these folks, and when the commentators let us know that one of them has shot his or her chance for "medaling" because he or she didn't "stick" the landing or didn't "stay focused," we lean back, chomp on a new cheesier corn chip, swallow a swig of sodie-pop, and say loudly, "Ah. she blew it. (burp) Nice going, sis.

The Olympics have always been magical to me, ever since 1972 when Mark Spitz and Olga Korbut grabbed my attention and held it. I spent hours out in the yard doing 9.5 backbends and swimming miles of laps as fast as I could. The Olympic theme resounded in my head as I cut through the water (with the splashy stroke of a 9-year-old), and my heart stirred with reverence when I imagined the National Anthem being played as I accepted a gold for my country. The competition was thrilling and the patriotism I felt as a young child was new and intoxicating. Those athletes were my heros whether they won a medal or not. I wish these irritating commentators could comprehend that concept As a commentator, I would not be any good either, though All I'd probably say would be things like "Wow"

"How did she do that?" "That had to hurt!" and "Yikes!" I'd probably end my commentary by saying, "Man, I gotta get some exercise.

More seriously, though, I think I would commend the talent and sheer devotion these athletes display as they perform for the world and for themselves. And I would definitely try to stress to all those young people watching that getting the gold is not the only triumph. It's the going

It's really pretty simple. Either more working Americans become involved in their government or else we will continue to be the cash cow milked whenever special interests inside government need more money. Soon we'll be out of milk. Then what?

It is crucial that government waste be eliminated before more good money is thrown after bad. A 20 percent reduction in the number of middle and upper level workers would increase efficiency at state and national levels. A 30 percent reduction in administrative costs is possible. In Mary-land this would reduce the cost of government by millions of dollars, probably 30 million or so.

Research has shown that the campaign has an incredible 95 percent recall and that anti-drug attitudes among Marylanders are making double digit increases! For example, in a increases! For example, in a recent study, when people were asked to rate their agreement with the statement, "Doing cocaine occasionally isn't risky," almost all (94 percent) of the respondents disagreed strongly. Local Businesses Lend Support To Education Program

Ten local businesses re-cently joined forces to support "excellence in education" this past year at Southern High School. The businesses were involved in an accountability program in Dave Bender's world history and civics classes at the school. Bender's system was based on mastery of content and skills in social sciences, and on helping students understand how to be responsible learners.

The businesses involved donated "commodities," ranging from licorice and base cards to pizzas, which could be "bought" by stu-dents who earned "kudos," or tokens based on academic performance. Donating businesspersons and their establishments were Lois Ayres, Big Tee; Rick DiSimonie, Browning's Food-land, At Devine, Shortstop; Glen Welch, IGA; Ken Crews, Pizza Hut; Milton Proudfoot, Proudfoot's Pharmacy; Julie Fratz, Super-Valu; Bonnie Kelly, Video Connection; and James and Rosetta Elsey, Swallow Falls Inn. The tokens were print-ed and donated by the Sincell Publishing Company.

The students earned the tokens for class participation, excellence and promptness of homework, mastering extra enrichment tasks, mastering major exams, and for staying after school to work with peer tutors. They also competed for tokens in cooperative teams led by master" students.

Bender reported that the standard of performance in the classroom was "effectively raised" by requiring students to master objectives at a specific criteria much higher than the standard 60% average. Bender said students were required to mas-ter all objectives to receive a

The students were aided in their efforts by area businesses that provided motivation through a "token" system, helping students achieve higher standards than in the typical classroom. The businesses donated over $2.75 worth of commodities, and peer tutore along with Bender spent over 100 hours of instruction outside the regular classroom. See separate story for details. did not satisfy the level of performance required were given the opportunity to get help and try again.

"In my opinion," Bender said, "a 60% average does not prove competence. We are not giving the taxpayer, parent, or student their money's worth by allowing students to guess their way to a high school diploma. Our problem in education has been simply that the distractions to learning for students and working parents have grown tremendously over the past 20 years. Students have gradually worked to the lower end of our minimum standards.

'At the same time, the skills and knowledge needed to get a job in an increasingly competitive and complex economy have grown. The result is a crisis of undereducated citizens trying to find employment in a market of jobs requiring higher skills and abilities. But mastery learning proves that higher standards can be achieved."

The teacher reported that in four terms worth of grades, 74% of those were A's and B's. In a typical classroom, that number is generally 35-45%, according

"Not one student in my class received a D grade and only 5% of the total grades were C's," he said.

Bender added that another bonus of this system is that it helps teachers, administrators, parents, and students focus on learning, not just covering material or "spending time" in school.
"Personally, I don't think national or statewide testing will promote learning and accountability as much as raising standards in each individual classroom - and it would save money, too," Bender said. He added that several changes would be necessary to incorporate mastery learning into the entire school system, including some restructuring of the school day and a need for a more specific or narrowed curriculum unless more classroom time was allotted.

Grantsville Defeats Mount Savage To Capture Bi-State Pony League Title

Grantsville Post 214 cap-tured the 1992 Bi-State Pony league title last night by rolling over Mount Savage, 14-3, in Grantsville. The win gave Grantsville a 2-0 victory in the best-of-three series, as the local team topped Mount Savage in the first game, 6-1, Monday

Grantsville had entered the tournament as the number three seed, while Mount Savage was ranked number one, having won the regular season championship Grantsville qualified for the finals by defeating second seeded Simpson's Auto of Keyser last Thursday, 13-5

Grantsville took advantage of six Simpson errors in last Thursday's contest and played flawless defense in the meantime. Danny Butler singled three times to lead Grantsville's 11-hit effort, while Jeremy Hoover dou-bled and singled Mike Yoder went the distance on the mound

Eric Spiker tripled and singled, Micah McDowell doubled and singled, and Pete Fritch singled twice to lead Simpson's nine-hit

Aaron Blocher earned a complete game win in the first contest with Mount Savage by scattering six hits.

Joey Layman singled three times for two RBI and Hoover doubled. Grantsville broke a 1-1 tie and took the lead for good with three runs in the top of the second

Grant Jewell, who scored an unearned run for Mount Savage in the first inning on a passed ball, finished with two singles

Among the highlights of last night's deciding game against Mount Savage was a grand slam by Hoover. Yoder went the distance on the mound, striking out four

Grantsville was out-hit by an 11-8 margin, but were never really threatened after taking a 6-1 lead in the bottom of the second inning. Ryan Folk added a pair of doubles, while Todd Smith and Layman each singled twice for Grantsville

Mount Savage, who fin-ished with a 14-5 mark, was led in hitting by Mark Moulden, who doubled and singled twice, and Steve Winebrenner, who had a solo

Grantsville finished with a 13-5-1 record

The Mountaintop Soccer Association has begun registration for the 1992 season, with initial enrollment efforts being conducted through the mail. All former players have received registration forms and additional forms are available at Englander's Pharmacy in Oakland, Arrowhead Grocery & Deli at Deep Creek Lake, Accident Garage, and Beachy's Pharmacy in Grantsville.

Dave Spirk, MSA secre-tary, stated that youth could sign up in the following age groups: Under 6 (born Aug. 2, 1986, to Aug. 1, 1988); Under 8 (Aug. 2, 1984, to Aug. 1, 1986); Under 10 (Aug. 2, 1982, to Aug. 1, 1984); Under 12 (Aug. 2, 1984); Under 12 (Aug. 2, 1984); Under 12 (Aug. 2, 1984); Under 14 (Aug. 2, 1984); Under 15 (Aug. 2, 1984); Under 15 (Aug. 2, 1988); Under 16 (Aug. 2, 1988); Under 17 (Aug. 2, 1988); Under 18 1984); Under 12 (Aug. 2, 1980, to Aug. 1, 1982); Under 14 (Aug. 2, 1978, to Aug. 1, 1980); Under 16 (Aug. 2, 1976, to Aug. 1, 1978); Under 17 (Aug. 2, 1975, to Aug. 1, 1976); Under 19 (Aug. 2, 1975); Under 19 (Aug. 2, 197 1974, to Aug. 1, 1975); and Adult (before Aug. 2, 1974).

"We may need to be a little flexible with our younger age groupings to ensure we accommodate variation in size of kids," Spirk said. "The point is, we want to be able to provide an opportunity to play for anyone who wants to give it a go." The Under 17 and Under 19 teams are being formed on a tentative basis, as their play will depend upon how

Garrett Legion Team Drops Two To Cumberland

The Garrett County Juior American Legion beseball team continued to strug-gle this past week, as the local squad dropped two contests to Fort Cumberland Post 214 in Mountain District competition. Garrett dropped a 6-0 decision at Cumberland last Thursday and was edged by the same team in McHenry Tuesday evening, 13-11.

The Garrett offense managed only four hits, two of which were by Josh Woods, against Cumberland pitchers Steve Milburn, John Natolly, Brett Miller, and Mike Pertlast Thursday.

Bubba Conis and Miller

each singled twice for the winners, who recorded eight hits off Garrett pitcher

Shane Skipper. In Tuesday's contest, Garrett County came back from a 5-0 deficit to eventually take an 11-7 lead into the seventh inning, but Post 13 rallied for five runs in the top of that inning to take the lead for good.

Conis opened the seventh with a walk and Matt Kostovick followed with a two-

Angelo Mirenda was a scrappy youngster in South Philadelphia who took up boxing but used an assumed name because he didn't want his father to know. He soon shifted to working as a boxing trainer and, as Angelo Dundee, became what Howard Cosell called "the best there is in what he does." Dundee has been the trainer and man in the corner of the ring for Muhammed Ali, Sugar Ray Leonard and nine other boxing champions. In his 70s, Dundee was still training boxers at a Miami Beach gym.

Until this year, people who wanted to sue an employer for age discrimination had to go to court within two years. Morethan 13,000 cases never made it to court in the 1980s because the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) delayed the processing of charges be-yond the two-year limit. Now, Congress has eliminated the limit. A charge of employment discrimination still must be filed with the EEOC, but a plaintiff may take the case to court at any time after 60 days.

throughout all the separate states, and Bartlett agreed there is need for a change but stressed that "we must balance the approach.

Hattery noted that President Bush "should have taken a more active role in the Rio conference . should have taken a leadership role in constructing that document."

Bartlett also pointed out that the federal government needs to "consider the environment in our trade relations," explaining that weaker environmental regulations in other countries affect imported foreign products, as well as the quality of air in the United States.

Pickins sure are scarce down here today. A hungry fish just doesn't stand much of a chance. Wait what is that? Do I see a fat, juicy worm? Great! Breakfast at last!!"

Well, our hungry little fish satisfied his appetite, but little did he know it would be his last meal. Temptation dangled, and he grabbed it. "hook, line and sinker", totally unaware of the conse-

Although humankind, too, has needs for gratification. God has given us His Word, that we might develop the understanding of which needs we must satisfy, and how to do so appropriately, in order to avoid the dangers of temptation.

Faith, hope, patience...means by which we can survive the demands of our lives...the manna which provides strength and satisfaction. You need not hunger. Worship this week. Rely on the sustenance that only God can provide. Don't take the bait.

ARE YOU IN TRAINING Background Scripture: 1 Timothy 4 Devotional Reading:

BIBLE

2 Peter 1:3-11 There's an old saying to the effect that "Practice makes perfect "Actually, practice may not make us perfect, but it at least brings us closer to fulfilling our potential. When I was a boy I took piano lessons. I wanted to learn to play the piano and that meant, not only taking lessons once a week, but practicing ev ry day After several years, I resisted practicing and eventu ally I stopped taking lessons Practice had not made me "pertect," but it had helped me to learn to play the piano to a

One of the reasons Host my interest in the piano was my growing obsession with foot ball (My third grade teacher a bit unkindly. I think ..." I hope some day you break your fool neck playing football ") But, as it had been with the piano, I found that learning to play football took a lot of training and practice. I hardly achieved perfection in footbail, but I learnest enough to enable me to play for several vears in high school NOT BY TALENT ALONE

What I learned through these experiences with the piano and football is that learning to do anything with some degree of competence requires training and practice, even for those who are specially gifted later, as a sportswriter for our local newspaper, I observed some natural athletes who didn't make the grade athletically because they tried to get by on talent alone
Training is even more intensive and complicated today than it was when I was a youth People spend lots of money, time and effort to perfect themselves at jogging, golfing, tennis, play ing a musical instrument, and even running for political of eral understanding that if you are looking to excellence in any field, the more you put into training, the more you will

Isn't it interesting, then, to consider that many of us try to live as disciples of Jesus Christ with as little training and practice as possible? Some years ago when I was a pastor in Mohnton, Pennsylvania, I was speaking with a teenager about joining our Confirmation Class so that he could join the church. When loutlined the classes he'd have to attend and the study that would be required, he said, "Why should I go through all of that, when I can wait a few years and join as an adult without knowing anything?" MISSING PRACTICE

I had to admit there was a good deal of logic in that Lots of people I have known have as-sumed that one can be a Christian without any training or practice at all The fact is, even more than in the arts or athletics, discipleship is a lifelong process of learning and prac tice. The only way we can excel in it is to practice, practice, practice. The great Polish pinnist, Ignace Paderewski, said that if he missed practicing one day, he knew it. It he missed two days, the critics knew it, and, if he missed three or more days, everyone knew it? That's living if our practice is not reguknows it. Just as I found that joining the team alone did not make me a football player, so, joining the church doesn't make me a disciple of Jesus Christ Just think how much time and effort we may put into our tennis game, or spend on the handicap That's O.K - I'm all for excellence -- but is it not even more important for us to learn to excel in our disciple ship? Like the rest of our mate rial possessions, when God calls us home we will have to leave our golf clubs and tennis rack ets behind That's why the writer of l Timothy admonishes his readers: "Train yourself in godliness; for while bodily training is of some value, godliness is of value in every way, as it holds promise for the present life and also for the life to come

When dialing an 800number, consumers could discover that what once was free may no longer be, warns Maryland Attorney General J. Joseph Curran Jr. in the latest issue of "Tips for Tough Times," a consumer alert publication

Attorney General

'The abuse of 800-numbers could be the next big scam to plague the public, Curran said, citing complaints received by the Consumer Protection Division in his office about a company that billed consumers who called a "toll-free" 800-num-

The Attorney General said a woman in Severn received a postcard telling her she had won a prize and should call a toll-free 800number to find out what she had won. She dialed the number and was charged for the call. A confusing disclaimer seemed to say there would be no charge for the call, then said callers would be charged $3.90 per minute unless they hung up before using an automated service to obtain information on their "prizes," Curran explained.

The new one-page "Tips for Tough Times," prepared by the Consumer Protection Division in Curran's office, warns that the questionable use of 800-numbers, long familiar to consumers as a tollfree means of obtaining information, is "a new twist to an old problem" -- the big, unexpected bills that consumers have received for 900-number calls they did not realize would cost them money

"Be careful of 900-num-You'll always be charged for the call," advises the Attorney General's "Tips"

Meat" Me in Spain

Tapas Cherry Fantasy, Sausage Banderillas, Pork and Dried Cherry Empanadillas

unmer parties made easy

It's summertune and the livin' is easy. So why not celebrate the season by inviting a few friends for an informal party

This summer a party with a Spanish theme is perfect because not only are the Summer Olympic Games being held in Barcelona, it's the 500th anniversary of Columbus' voyage to America. In addition, Expo '92 in Seville, which is billed as the largest world's lair, will attract visitors from around the globe And, Spanish foods, such as tapas, are just right for American-

Tapas are a Spanish fradition that are similar to appetizers. Most recipes are either easy to make at the last minute of can be prepared ahead of time. A tapas menu should offer a variety of tastes and textures that complement each other, as in these

I-mpanadillas leature a savory combination of pork sausage, dried cherries and just the right spices wrapped in flaky pastry. Convenient delt ham and beet are served on toasted bread rounds, while smoked sausage teams up with peppers and omons for flavorful kabobs. For dessert, serve Cherry Fantasy, a light and airy confection with a hint of orange. And offer guests

Cherry Sangria, a retreshing nonalcoholic drink It's a menu that will have your guests saving "Ole"

Note: Stall will keep a to 4 weeks in the freezer. After they are place in a lovered container with waxed paper between

- Cherry Sangria I bottle 32 to 40 ounces) cherry juice blend
- Lar (6 our es) maraschino cherries, drained cup Iresh orange juice
- 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
- I orange, thinly sliced Lemon, thinly sliced
- 2 bottles (10 to 12 onnes each) club soda or lemon-lime carbonated beverage, chilled Maraschino cherries and orange slices, if desired

It a large pitcher combine cherry juice blend, maraschino singe juice and lemon juice. Mrx well. Add orange and Retrigerate several hours to chill mixture and blend

Before a sinc add club soda stir gently. Serve over ice cubes in tall plane. Garnish with maraschino cherries and orange slices if desired. Makin about 2 quarts

Party Basics:

The secret to successful entertaining, any time of year, is advance planning. Especially in the summer, getting organized will make parties as much tun for the host or hostess as for guests. Here are some specifics on party. planning that may be helpful

♦ Consider having several small get-togethers instead of one large party. Light people will provide plenty of lively conversation, but you don't need large quantities of food

♦ Choose a menu that's quick, easy and versatile. Recipes, such as I mpanadillas and Cherry Fantasy, can be partially prepared in advance and frozen until the day of the party Other recipes, such as Beel and Hain Tapas and Sausage Banderillas, can be put together quickly when guests are ready to eat.

◆ Make a complete grocery list well in advance of the party and purchase as many foods as possible ahead of time. Then, the day before the party, all you have to do is make a quick trip to your layorite supermarket to pick up deli meats and Iresh produce

♦ Make use of patios, decks, gazebos or other outdoor entertainment areas for summer parties. Picnic tables, card tables or other tables can be set up outdoors for al fresco dining, which will Turther enhance your Spanish party theme.

 ◆ Remember to retrigerate lettovers within two
 ◆ No matter what, keep your cool and enjoy hours of serving

• It's always a good idea to offer guests at least one nonalcoholic beverage. One refreshing treat is a Cherry Sangria made with a cherry juice blend ♦ Tapas are easy to eat. Serve them buffetstyle on attractive plates or platters. Guests can pick them up and eat them with their lingers. Or use colorful plates and utensils to serve tapas to guests.

♦ The Olympics may put guests in an athletic mood, so set up a volleyball net or get out the croquet set. If you have a basketball hoop, some of your guests might want to try a little fancy footwork your own party.

Studentsattending college part-time in Maryland will be eligible for state financial aid for the first time beginning this fall

Under a new law, pro-posed by Governor William Donald Schaefer and enacted in 1991, part-time students enrolled in degree-granting programs will be eligible to participate in the Part-Time Grant Program.

"More than half of the college students in Maryland go to school part-time," Governor Schaefer said. "This new program recognizes that fact and will help thousands of Marylanders afford college It also gives the state an effective tool for economic development and worker retraining as we work our way out of the recession.'

The part-time grant program was part of a larger package of scholarship reforms - the Schaefer Administration's Scholarship Reform Act of 1991 -- intended to extend to more people the opportunity to attend college.

SCOUTS ATTEND CAMP -- Membars of BSA, Troop #82, Accident, recently spent a week at Camp Potomac, Oldlown. Also joining the troop was Kevin Wright, a Scout from Battimore, who was chosen to spenda week at Camp Potomac and was assigned to Troop #82. During the week the troop participated in many outdoor activities, including swimming, canoeing, archery, rifle, leatherwork and environmental science. In all, the Troop #82 scouts earned a total of 35 merit badges. Pictured from left to right, frontrow, are: Jason Reed, J.D. Governor Names Task Force On

Building Standards Governor William Donald Schaefer signed an executive order this week creating a Task Forceon Uniform Mary land Building Performance

Standards "Many of Maryland's jurisdictions follow different editions of a national code, somefollow another standard, and still others have no code at all," said Governor Schaefer. "During these tough times, its important to encourage industry, and we'll help reduce construction costs and red tape by developing a statewide standard that everyone can live with.

Governor Schaefer named prominent Bethesda zoning attorney Norman M. Glasgow as chairman of the task force Glasgow has been involved in a number of major projects in the Maryland-Washington, D.C. area including historic preservation cases, housing projects, and commercial development.

"I'm looking forward to the challenge," said Glasgow 'We want to develop a flexible standard that meets everyone sneeds, protects the public and reduces confusion in the building industry."

Glasgow will serve with vicechairman Albert M. Copp, a member of a Maryland civil structural consulting engineering firm, and 33 other task force members includ-ing State Fire Marshal Rocco Gabriele and Department of Housing and Community Development Secretary Jacqueline H. Rogers

Members will work to develop draft legislation establishing a system for uniform standards for introduction during the 1993 Legislative Session. Provisions of the legislation must include a way to ensure local flexibility, the adoption of one edition of a national code as a statewide basis that still allows local adaptations, and the creation of a central, one-line database containing information on local deviations from the uniform standards

Other task force appoin tees include members of Maryland's Senate and House of Delegates, elected county and municipal officials, a member of the state's Housing Policy Commission, report revealed that fire fight ers responded to 9,517 residential property fires during the past year, with an estimated property loss of $71,339,893.

The most frequent area of origin in residential structure fires was the kitchen or cooking area. Approximately 33.1 percent of all residential structure fires originated in the kitchen. Fires which began in the bedroom and livingroom areas were the next most frequent areas of fire origin in residential structure fires.

The busiest month of the year for fire fighters was November, when 3,284 fires occurred. July and June followed as the second and third busiest months for fires, with 3,134 and 3,127 respectively

According to the data collected by the fire marshal, the most frequent time for fires to occur last year was between 4 and 6 p m. Unattended cooking and cooking appliances were the most frequent ignition factors found in residential fires

There were 98 civilian fire fatalities and four fire fighter deaths recorded in 1991 Additionally, 592 civilians and 526 fire fighters were injured as the result of fire incidents in Maryland last year

Rosebrooks Art To Be Displayed In GCC Gallery

An exhibit of pamtings by Ann C. Rosebrooks, an awardwinning painter from North Grosyenordale, Conn., will be displayed in the Bausch and Lomb Art Gallery of Garrett Community College, from August 5-22, according to Ron Skidmore, coordinator of the gallery. The gallery will be open weekdays from 9a.m. to 5 p.m. and evenings during special events. The public is invited to a reception for the artist on August 5, from 7 to 8 p.m., preceding the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival production of "Charley's

Ms. Rosebrooks is artistin-residence for the Pulpit Rock Artists Community and is the recipient of a Connecticut Commission on the Arts grant. She holds a bachelor of fine arts degree from the Rhode Island School of Design, and her artworks are in various private and public collections throughout the United States.

According to one critic, the paintings of Ann Rosebrooks are "unique expressions of human existence" which are directly connected to her personal experiences and interactions with others. Decorative patterns are central toher paintings; fabrics that cover tables, windows, floors and walls are brightly colored, full of repeated images of flowers. "But the paintings are not them-selves just decorative; they are full of meaning and emotional depth," the critic said.

"The primary thrust of her work is social scenes: malls, cocktail parties, weddings, etc., showing the relation of people to each other and to their environment. Her portraits, landscapes, interiors and narrative paintings are visual and emotional responses to her observations. rather than exact transcriptions of scenes. She produces drawings and watercolor sketches on the spot, and later paints from these in oils or acrylics on canvas. The resulting works are often combined images with fantasies and invented areas, sometimes humorous, and portraying feelings and experiences shared by many other people."

About her work in this exhibit, the artist says, "The paintings in this exhibit are directly connected to my life feelings -- places I have been, rooms I inhabit, people with whom I interact. These paintings tell a story, portray a scene, or reflect on a thought

"I started working on a series of 'Then and Now' paintings in the fall of 1990," she continued. "My concept wastoshowchangeovertime. 1 completed three paintings with 'Then and Now' titles and a fourth 'One Woman's Path' that is part of the se-

Bill Slagle Is Enshrined Into W.Va. Agricultural Hall of Fame with seminars on progeny

Bill Slagle, an innovative beef cattleman, tree farmer, teacher and consultant for approximately 46 years, has been enshrined into the West Virginia Agricultural and Forestry Hall of Fame This honor, which was bestowed upon Slagle during a dinner ceremony July 17 at Jackson's Mill, West Virginia, was "earned as a result of the wide range of agricultural accomplish ments during his career," according to Robert H. Maxwell, president, Agricultural Hall of Fame Foundation for West Virginia, Inc.

Slagle and his wife. Elsie, live at Rt. 3, Bruceton Mills, West Virginia, and their property includes a farm in the White Rock area of Garrett County Slagle was nominated for his services in both agriculture and forestry In 1973, as Americans began demanding beef with less fat content, Slagle researched, and searched world wide for a rapid gaining less fat type beef sire with better feed conversion In 1974, he imported the first Limousin bull to West Virginia from Ireland and developed a purebred Limousin herd. By working with an embryo transplant technician from Ontario, Canada, and West Virginia University's Animal Science Program, embryo transfer was accomplished at his farm in 1979. Using a non surgical procedure, nine months later through the above work, the first embryo transplant live calf was delivered From 1977 through 1982. Slagle, in conjunction testing, performance testing with WVU Computer Systems, heat synchronization, artificial insemination and embryo transplant in beef cattle. Vocational agriculture students and teachers from three states and two countries attended the educational seminars. The direct impact of the pioneer ing and accomplishment has been seen in the quality of beef now being produced in West Virginia, as well as improved performance and dollar return to farmers One vocational agriculture teacher at Preston County Education Center farm wrapped it up in this quote of his cattle. "We will not feed cattle that do not gain five pounds per day and have a dress weight of 65. 70 percent. Our Limousin's do that, compared to weight gains we used to get of three pounds per day and a 50 percent dressed weight."

In the 1991 West Virginia Market Bulletin Issue, February, 37 percent of cattle sales are of the Limousin breed compared to zero in 1974 when Slagle introduced Limousin to the state. Slagle continues to be a resource and consultant to 4 H or Vo-Ag students when selecting beef cattle for breeding or in choosing a show calf for competition

Eglon Farm Service Schedules Annual Membership Meeting

Since its founding by farmers 69 years ago, Southern States Cooperative has been innovative in serving the agriculture industry. Today it continues to introduce new products and services to improve the livelihood of farmers, 'says Carroll Gilbert, the co-op's director of member and institutional relations

According to Gilbert, the cooperative's strides and aims are reflected in the theme selected in 1991 and repeated for this year's annual membership meetings:

"Cultivating Innovation."
Among the highlights of the annual membership meeting for Eglon Farm Service, Inc., will be the election of local board members. Other program features include the election or announcement of appointment of Farm Home Advisory Committee members, and operations reports, which will be presented at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, August 6, at Farmers' Wildlife Park,

Horse Shoe Run. W. Va. In keeping with the theme, the local planning group has tried to be innovative in developing ideas and features for the meet-also be treated to training in many areas of natural resources. They will culminate their year-long study of wetlands by investigating both tidal and non-tidal wetlands at the Elms Camp in St. Mary's County, and they will also plant marsh ses along 700 feet of the St. Mary's River to stabilize the shoreline. The problem they solve will also involve wetlands They will study some of the problems of the Chesapeake Bay and water quality issues when they board St. Mary's Dee, one of the last working skipjacks on the Bay. Once aboard, the Chesapeake Bay Foundation will deliver an educational program that will emphasize the commitment of thousands of citizens and federal, state and local agencies and citizens groups working together on a major environmental challenge: the Bay cleanup. Because the teams will be from around the United States, the Envirothon planners wanted them to go home with the impression that people can make a difference working locally on challenges that involve clean-up, recycling, and preventative measures to sustain the environment for many generations. While the students are busy with their competition, the accompanying teacher and/or advisors will be attending a teacher training on wetlands. Besides a scheduled skipiack trip and educational program on the Chesapeake Bay, they will also be studying wetlands up-close from canoes, and planting marsh grass on the St. Mary's River.

Other activities at the 1992 National Envirothon will include a poster session that will show wetlands from around the United States, a workshop titled 'The Future of Natural Reprehensive test of natural sources' that will demonstrate high-technology and resource information. After wards, they will take part innovation from all the agencies that will be parin a role-playing, problem solving event where they will have about 24 hours to ticipating in the Envirothon, and a campfire program and night hike. There will also be a teleconference to students in Australia who are participating in a similar natural resource program. Funding for the National Envirothon is from America's Clean Water

Foundation, OHM of Ohio, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Maryland State Soil Conservation Committee, the Maryland Association of Conservation Districts, the Old Line Chapter of the Soil and Water Conservation Society, the Maryland Envirothon Program, Bell Atlantic, the Chesapeake Bay Trust, the Chesapeake Bay Foundation, Environmental Concerns, the Soil Conservation Service, Biospherics, Inc., and the Maryland Forestry Association.

LIND USE CONTROL

AND ENVIRONMENTAL LAW

Livestock producers throughout the U.S. face legal challenges on a wide range of environmental subjects. Now a handbook is available to help them address these challenges. "A Livestock Producer's Guide to Nuisance, Land Use Control and Environmental Law" was written under a grant from the American Farm Bureau Federation by Dr. Neil Hamilton, a law professor and director of the Agricultural Law Center at Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa. According to Tim

Price, director of AFBF's commodity and marketing division, the book is the result of recommenda-tions by AFBF's beef cattle, egg, dairy, poultry meat, sheep and goat, and swine advisory committees

They requested that AFBF publish a book to help educate livestock producers across the country about these topics,"

> The handbook is intended as educational material only, it is not intended as a substitute or replacement for individual legal advice. The 174-page book contains up-to-date information on nuisance and right-to-farm laws, local land control rules and has a list of environmental law terms. It also includes a brief 50-state review of agricultural law and names of state and national resources.

Single copies and quantities of up to 10 are priced at $12, which includes handling and postage. On orders of 11 or more the cost is $10 each.

Governor Appoints Chesapeake Bay Agricultural Programs Coordinator

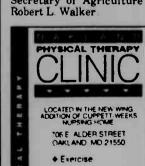

Governor William Donald Schaefer has announced the appointment of Thomas W. Simpson to be the state's coordinator for Chesapeake Bay agricul-tural programs. This new position will direct all agriculturally related Chesapeake Bay conservation programs through the Maryland Department of Agriculture and the Maryland Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources of the University of Maryland Sys-

"This joint appointment will allow us in the state to have a unified response to all of our efforts to preserve Maryland's valuable waterways and farms and protect the Chesapeake Bay," said

Governor Schaefer. Governor Schaefer joint Chesapeake Bay appointment in order to insure the maximum cooperation between various state agencies and the agricultural community.

"I will be looking to Dr. Simpson to insure that Maryland's agricultural community will maintain its leadership role in the conservation area. He will concentrate on finding ways to help farmers improve production methods while re ducing agricultural pollution in the bay watershed. He comes with excellent credentials from Virginia and I think he will give our agricultural resource conservation efforts a tremendous boost," Governor Schaefer said.

"This joint appointment demonstrates the close cooperation that exists between the Maryland Department of Agriculture and the University of Maryland System to solve the bay's problems," said Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker

U.S. And Canada Reach Agreement On Revised Meat Inspection System

U.S. and Canadian agriculture officials have agreed on a plan to make each country's meat import inspection system similar, according to USDA Secre tary Edward Madigan

One of the changes is that Canadian inspectors will no longer choose the Canadian meat that is sampled. Instead, U.S. import inspectors will select the Canadian meat to be inspected. Also, the frequency of reinspection of meat imported into the United States and Canada will be set at equivalent lev-

Under the new procedures, Canada will reduce its number of inspections. Changes are to be implemented on August 10. Both countries agreed to work toward providing a system under which products can be reinspected at the border or at additional sites closer to their destinations. Canadian products entering the United States will be reinspected only at approved import establishments staffed by USDA import inspectors.

In the past, meat and poultry products crossing the U.S.-Canadian line have been subject to reinspection

Orug abuse is a keystone issue. AIDS, crime and violence, homelessness, health-care costs, education, and the economy are all adversely effected by drugs. And the major question, the critical question, is what are we going to do for our kids? What are we going to do for the thousands of sixth and seventh graders who move every year into the terribly vulnerable teens?

We've got a long way to go. 800-Numbers Abuse Noted By Attorney General

When dialing an 800number, consumers could discover that what once was free may no longer be, warns Maryland Attorney General J. Joseph Curran Jr. in the latest issue of "Tips for Tough Times," a consumer alert publication.

The abuse of 800-numbers could be the next big scam to plague the public, Curran said, citing complaints received by the Consumer Protection Division in his office about a company that billed consumers who called a "toll-free" 800-num-

The Attorney General said a woman in Severn received a postcard telling her she had won a prize and should call a toll-free 800number to find out what she had won. She dialed the number and was charged for the call. A confusing disclaimer seemed to say there would be no charge for the call, then said callers would be charged $3.90 per minute unless they hung up before using an automated service to obtain information on their "prizes,"

Curran explained. The new one-page "Tips for Tough Times," prepared by the Consumer Protection Division in Curran's office, warms that the questionable use of 800-numbers, longfamiliar to consumers as a tollfree means of obtaining information, is "a new twist to an old problem" -- the big, unexpected bills that consumers have received for 900-num-ber calls they did not realize would cost them money. Be careful of 900-numbers. You'll always be charged for the call," advises the Attorney General's "Tipa" publication. "Although some legitimate companies use 900 numbers, don't call a 900number simply to obtain information about a product or service you're thinking of buying Keep in mind: Why should you pay for information about a product or ser-

Curran said the monthly "Tips for Tough Times" is being distributed throughout the state via a communications network made up of localemployers, large agencies, and service groups. "Tips" is available to any company or organization that wishes to copy it for distribution to employees or clients, he said.

Bus Inspection Schedule Noted

Inspections of all buses serving the Garrett County Board of Education will be conducted August 17-19 at various schools in the county, according to Clark A. Sharpless, director of student transportation. Inspections will be conducted at Southern High School from 8.30 to 10 a.m. on August 17 and 18, at Northern High School from 8:30 to 10 a.m. on August 19, and at Grantsville Elementary School from 1 to 2 p.m., also on August 19. Each bus has been assigned a specific location.

Sharpless noted that license plates will be suspended if the inspections reveal major problems with tires, king pins, steering, brakes, or exhaust system. He added that first aid and emergency equipment should be clean and displayed on the front seat behind the

GCC To Offer Minina Course

A 40-hour course designed for the individual who is seeking training in surface coal mining is being offered by Garrett Community College. A minimum of 25 students are needed for the course to begin. Students will review laws and regulations; first aid; safety hazards; fire prevention; explosives; health and sanitation. Upon completion of the course the student should have received necessary instruction to challenge a test to satisfy West Virginia and/or Maryland state requirements.

The tuition for the course will be $175 plus a $3 registration fee for Garrett County residents. A differential will be charged for out-of-county and out-of-state residents. For additional information, persons may contact the Con-Firms or agencies that request "Tips for Tough at (301) 387-6666, ext. 170.

Commissioners Recognized For Support Of WIC

Following the recent statewide recognition of the Garrett County WIC Program (Special Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants, and Children), the Garrett County Commissioners were recognized last week by Carol Bass, WIC coordinator, who stated that the success of the program would not have been possible without the support of the community and funding assistance from the commis-

Bass presented the commissioners with a replica of the plaque received by Garrett County's WIC program, when it was recently named runner-up for the J. Howard Beard Award. Sponsored by the National Association of County Health Officials, the award gives national recognition to "outstanding, significant, and exemplary activi-ties" of local health depart-

Rabid Raccoon Brings County's Total To Six

A raccoon was confirmed abid by the Garrett County Health Department this week, bringing the county's total number of 1992 rabies

According to Edgar Hartal health, Charles Craver contacted the health department on Monday and told officials that the animal had run across his lawn that morning and was chased by his dog. The pet fought with the raccoon and chased it up a tree. Craver then shot it.

The dog had been vacci-nated against the disease and received a booster. It will be observed for 90 days. Harman noted that Craver followed the safety precau-tions set forth by the health department by not touching his pet for two hours after the encounter and by using rubber gloves in removing

LOVING THY NEIGHBOR is demonstrated over and over again by the non-denominational Christian housing ministry known as Habitat for Humanity, and Garrett County has one of the most active affiliates of that international organization. The purpose of the organization is to renovate existing homes or build new ones for families in need of adequate housing. The beneficiary families participate in the construction efforts and then assume no-interest mortgages to pay for the materials. All of the labor is provided free of charge by local Habitat workers, as well as numerous volunteers who come from hundreds of miles away to participate in summer work camps that are hosted by the local affiliate. The photo above was taken this week in Mtn. Lake Park as a visiting work crew was applying slding to a Habitat house on P Street. Several local churches have once again assisted Garrett County Habitat this summer by providing meals to the visiting volunteers. A special recognition week for Habitat is being planned locally for around Labor Day, the details of which will be released acon. numerous volunteers who come from hundreds of miles away to

Bradley Manor Plan Announced; Total Renovation May Take Place

The Oakland Mayor and Town Council met Monday and conducted a public hearing concerning the recent plans for the Bradley Manor housing area. The plan is the result of a court order to the town, the De-partment of Housing and Urban Development, and the Oakland Associates to come up with a compromised arrangement to deal with the current dilapidated housing development.

Mayor Asa McCain first made clear that the design is simply a plan - it may not be what will definitely happen to the area. It will be presented to the Baltimore judge (who ordered the compromise) on August 11, and if he agrees with the plan, construction may begin in six months.

McCain told the approximately 40 persons at the public meeting that the reconstruction of the area would be done by the local Devlin Incorporated and the housing's management would be handled by Garrettland Realty. The two firms have built and managed several local housing developments, including Mountain Lake Park's Pinewoods East and Oakland's Underwood South. Both of these developments have proven to be successful endeavors, McCain reported. The new area would have a total of 87 low to middleincome housing units with 64 one-bedroom homes and 23 two-bedroom. In comparison, the Bradley Manor development held 324 total bedrooms with numerous three and four-bedroom

"This arrangement of bedrooms makes a big difference when it comes to occupants," McCain said. "This will invite either young couples with maybe one child as well as single or elderly persons who will live alone. The area will also include two tennis courts and four basketball courts to be open for public use. The local

Concerns Aired Over Move To Privatize Information Centers

Concerns over the possible privatization of information centers throughout the state of Maryland and the effects that move might have on tourism in Garrett County were raised this week by Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council Director Diane Wolfe and the council's board of directors' president Karen Spiker. who asked for support from the Garrett County Commissioners in obtaining additional and more specific informa-

PROPER BEHAVIOR, mistaken identities, and true love triangles are featured in Charley's Aunt, a rollicking British farce that is being performed this week on the Garrett Community College stape. Directed by Jane Avery, the production opened to a large crowd last night and will continue for the next three evenings at 8 p.m. The cast is composed entirely of local actors, inck/ding, left to right, front row, Clint Hatfield, Atsyns Harkins, Addy Wilson, and Chester Stacy. Standing, seme order, are Roger Strouse, Richerd Hill, Nate Motz, and Doug Evans. Other cast members are Karyn Seilhamer, Sue Harkins, and Mindy Skiles. Robin Spiker is stage manager, Ben Sincell and Conrad Maust were in charge of set construction end lightling, and costumes have been provided by Joan Sussman, Sonia Pratt, Donna Garman, and Liz Gilbert. Person are urged to make reservations by caffing the GCC Box Office at 387-8666 or Deep Creek Pharmacy at 387-5300. Tickets are $6 for adults and $2 for children under 12.

Two Local Manufacturing Plants Undergoing Restructuring Efforts

Two manufacturing plants located in the Southern Garrett Industrial Park appear to be faltering, as one business -- Garrett Optical --has recently laid off a report-ed 50 of its 55 employees and another -- Mountain Fresh Meats -- has been issued an "event of default" by the Garrett County Com-

Although the Garrett County Commissioners have declined to comment specifically on the issue of the two businesses and Garrett County Economic Development Director Tom Jones stated that he was not the official spokesperson for the businesses, Jones did con-firm that Garrett Optical has temporarily ceased production concerning the issue Wolfe explained to the commissioners that she was unclear about the state's definition of the word "privatization," and the motivation for such a move.

In a letter to George Williams, director of the Maryland Office of Tourism Development, from the promotion council. Spiker stated. "It is our understanding that the ultimate goal of the state in regard to these information centers is that they all be privatized will not be in the best interest of tourism or private industry throughout the state."

The letter went on to say that, since the council was instrumental in establishing the Youghiogheny Overlook, managing it since its opening in 1982, and since it has received the Office of Tourism Information Center of the Year award and numerous compliments about the quality of service and apfeel that this center could not be better managed by another entity and can see no gain in any management change"
Wolfe stated that one of the reasons given to her for the proposal was to make the centers more "uniform" and to save money for the state "The dissolution of the contract procedures for all centers would generate $60,000-$89,000 in savings through the elimination of duplicate and insufficient costs no w experienced through independent con-tractors," stated a letter to Wolfe from Williams Continued on Page A-4

The company has not closed up and is not moving out," said Jones, adding, They continue to service their customers. Garrett County Administrator Robert Fousek shed more light on the situation, stating, "Active negotiations are now going on between Garrett Optical and other manufacturers in like indus-

Education Board Announces New Appointments

The Garrett County Board of Education held a special meeting Monday with the purpose of acting on and announcing the appointments of three principals, several teachers, and various support personnel of the local public school system.

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County schools, noted that the board's early retirement incentive plan was a key factor in the retirement of approximately 30 system employees. Several new education employees were therefore needed to fill the vacancies, and several current employees have been transferred to different schools and positions

The new principals at Crellin, Red House, and Dennett Road Elementary Schools will be Keith Harvey, Linda Buckel, and Asa McCain, respectively. Teacher appointments included Wilt at Bloomington School, Cathy Helbig and Richard Stevens at Kitzmiller Elementary, Angie Thomas, Jean Hayhurst, and Thomas Domen (CPA teacher) at Southern High School, Elizabeth Gilbert at Swan Meadow, and Michele Miller, speech pathologist. Ms. Miller will travel between several schools, Ryscavage explained.

Additional appointments included various food service positions, including Patricia Barnhouse as person-incharge at Kitzmiller cafeteria. Other food service department positions will be filled by Cheryl Bray, Eugenia Cassidy, and Lisa

Further teacher appointments will be acted upon at the education board's next regular meeting, scheduled for August 11.

GCC Trustees Elect Officers

At Annual Dinner The Garrett Community

College Board of Trustees met last Thursday for its annual dinner meeting at the Silver Tree Inn. Officers for the coming year were elected and a re-appointment to the board was announced. Charles "Bus" Bender was re-elected chairman of the board while Marjorie Fratz was re-elected vice chair of the trustees. It was also announced that Wayne Hamilton was re-appointed to the trustee board by Gov. William D. Schaefer. Hamilton stated that he hadn't intended to accept Dr. Stephen Herman, president of the college, strongly persuaded" him to

Dr. Herman praised the entire board for its dedication and hard work to keep the morale of the college up during stressful, poor economical times. Small gifts were presented to each trustee from the college administration and staff

RED CROSS SPONSORS MANSION TOUR - For the second time and reportedly by populer demand, the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross will conduct tours through the DelSignore Mansion, built by the late coel baron Carl DelSignore. The tours will be held on Sunday August 30, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tickets may only be purchased at the door and are not limited. Over 700 people toured the mension lest year, according to a spokesperson. The cost is 31 for children under six and $5 for all others. Weather permitting, there will be an old-fashioned family picnic at the gazebo. Perticipants are invited to bring a picnic lunch and their lawn chairs. Some musical entertainment is currently being planned, the spokesperson added. Persons may also bring their cameras. Donna Heginbotham, a spokesperson for the local chapter, expressed gratitude to the Buffalo Coal Company as well as the DelSignore family for giving permission to take visitors through the structure. The manston is located outside Oektend on the Herrington Manor Road. Hosts for the event will be Red Cross vokinteers

Education Board And GCC Seeking Volunteers For College Expo Event

The Garrett Count Board of Education and Garrett Community College have aponsored a "College Expo" for the past several years and are planning to sponsor the event this year on Octo-ber 5. The purpose of the expo is to afford students and citizens of Garrett County the opportunity to meet and talk with representatives of colleges, universities, and trade and technical schools. Organizers of the event are now seeking the assistance of local alumni of these institutes of higher learning who would be willing to volunteer their time and or support to the expo endeavor
The event attracted over

400 participants last year who spoke with representa-tives of just over 40 institutions of post secondary edu-cation and or training The organizing committee for the event, which includes members of the community as well as from the sponsoring institutions, wish to expand the number of schools represented at the College Expo. The expansion would allow the participants to increase their view of the range of options available to them.

To offset the common hesitation or shyness of some participants at the expo, the committee members wish to identify the local alumni who would volunteer to be present at the various school booths and act as "visible locals" along with the representative from his or her alma mater. If a school cannot send a representative, local volunteers may help by contacting his or her alma mater and requesting recruiting materials. These persons then may act as the school's representatives recruiters

A third option for those who wish to help would be monetary. If persons are not available to be "visible locals," then they may assist by hosting one of the recruiters by contributing the cost of his or her dinner. (The cost of one meal is $12.50.) The agenda for the College Expo will most likely begin with a kick-off dinner at 5 p.m. followed by the expo activities from 7-9 p.m. The location for the event has not yet been confirmed.

Persons who wish to donate funds for the event shoukl make checks payable to Garrett County Board of Education · Career Expo and send them to Wayne Johnson, Garrett National Bank, 46 South Second Street, Oakland Md. 21550.

Those persons who are interested in volunteering their help by being "visible locals" may contact Johnson at 334-9483, JoAnn Vent at 334-8913, or Al Coviello at 334-8938

Local Phone Book Recycling Effort Is Successful

Through the efforts of a host of Garrett County organizations, over 3,000 telephone directories were diverted from area landfills this past month.

The recycling program, a partnership effort between &P Telephone Company and the Garrett County Roads Department, targeted old phone books for recycling when the new directories were delivered between June 17 and July 1. Garrett County Roads Engineer Lee Thorne and C&P External Affairs Manager Al Boyer rallied county civic groups and businesses to collect the books during the month of July, and the collected materials will soon be sent to the Suburban Insulation Company in Hagerstown where the books will be remade into cellulose insula-

Area groups involved in the collection were the Civic Club of Oakland, the League of Women Voters, Garrett Health Department, and Courthouse, Bausch & Lomb, Mettiki Coal Company, the public school system, Garrett Community College, Mountaintop Ministerial Association, the Home-makers' Club, Red House 4-H, and the Garrett County Board of Realtors.

The organizations and businesses that provided drop-off points for the books were the Ruth Enlow

Work Continuing At Center Street; Plans Include Restored Playground

The restoration and renovation of the former Center Street Elementary School, Oakland, is currently underway with several work crews on the site. The building will ultimately house the offices of the Garrett County Community Action Committee including a senior center, two head-start centers, and a small apartment area for nine elderly persons who require some day-to-day care Some local citizens have recently expressed concern about the fate of the school's playground which is now closed to the public. The playground equipment was removed several weeks ago as well, and some questions have been raised as to where it was taken and whether or not it will be replaced

Duane Yoder, director of the local Community Action Committee, explained that the playground will indeed be restored, although it will not be exactly the same as it was. He said the playground equipment was removed by Russell Sines and donated to the Swanton Mennonite Fellowship and the Swanton Community Center. Sines explained that he had first offered it to the Oak Park Church, but when the congregation expressed no interin the equipment, he offered it to the Swanton

Yoder said the older equipment was removed

THE COURTS ARE QUIET NOW at the Center Street School playground as work continues on the school to prepare it for the occupation of the Community Action Committee offices. Some local citizens have expressed concern about the fate of the play area that numerous local children utilize in the summer, but Duane Yoder, director of Community Action, has stated that the playground will indeed be restored in time. He explained that it will not be exactly the same as it has been, but that there will be two basketball courts, end to end, as well as a new chikt's playground in the area that is now the back gravel lot. Three to four parking spaces will be located inside the playing area of one of the basketball courts, but Yoder said the spaces will be vacant during most of the time the courts are in use. The renovation/restoration of the school should be complete by March or April 1993. See story.

from the school mainly because most of it does not meet state safety standards. Safer equipment will be purchased for the children's new playground, which will be located at the back of the school, currently the gravel parking lot. This playground will be for the use of the two head-start groups, but will also be open to the public. I'he basketball courts will he restored, Yoder said, but will be situated differently. Instead of side by side as they are now, the courts will be end to end. The rest of the paved lot will be for parking. Yoder did explain that a few parking spaces will be located inside the playing area of one of the basketball courts

"During the day in the winter, there will probably be cars parked there," he said "But they won't be there in the evenings. In the summers, we do not have our head-start or our energy assistance programs in progress, so that will mean fewer cars in the lot. We'll rope off those spots in the summer so that the kids can continue playing there." The summer program at on Monday, and it was at that time that the builders closed off the playground to the public. This was done so that the construction workers will have room to complete the job without jeopardizing the safety of any pedestrians. 'I understand one of the basketball backboards was removed," Yoder stated. This was done without my knowledge, but when I asked about it, I was assured by the builders that it had to be removed temporarily in order for the construction to continue in that area." Yoder said he understood that persons may be concerned about the removal of the backboard, but asserted that his plan always was and continues to be to restore the playground for use

At an Oakland town council meeting Monday night, council member Mary Lou Stemple reported that the average number of youths using the playground in the summer is 68 during the day and 114 in the evenings.

"This area is an important place for a lot of kids," Mayor Asa McCain said. "It would be best if it could be

Should Be A Winner...

The Marsland State Board of Education last week approved a number of new high school graduation requirements, the most interesting of which is one that says all high school students must complete at least 75 hours of school or community service before they can be awarded their diplomas. The Maryland school system is the first in the nation to add such a requirement

While we have some reservations about this new condition of high school graduation, we also believe it has considerable ment One reservation is that sometimes when persons are forced to provide community service, or assistance of any kind, it can cause resentment on the part of the provider. The sense of volunteerism, of free will, are at risk when one is forced to be a volunteer

We have also complained on a number of occasions about the fact that our school systems are being required to fulfill more and more needs of our students that really should be satisfied at home. Teachers cannot be just teachers, they must also be parents, counselors, and psychologists for their students because of the varying degrees of dysfunction and failure in the home environment. The community service requirement is just one more item that will require more paper work and monitoring by the school system

However, despite these reservations, we believe the community service requirement will in most cases be a positive, character-building experience for our students. Even though they are forced to participate. they will have many options as to what kind of service they wish to provide and most will come away with that special sense of accomplishment and pride that usually accompanies volunteer work. Such an experience can be a major boost to that all-important and often fragile self-esteem

One of the problems with our society today and no doubt in past generations) is that too many of our voung people have had a relatively easy life and expect to have things just handed to them. What all can I get out of this world's seems to be the attitude rather than what all can I contribute to this world?" Students will not just sit in their classrooms and talk about the problems in their communities; they will actually do something to help alleviate them. They will become more aware of the needs around them and, hopefully, more willing to pitch in and make a positive difference.

So, the votes certainly aren't all in yet, and probably won't be for several years, but we sense this new requirement for high school graduation will be a winner

Bradley Manor

Continued from rage A-1 expressed an interest in constructing a community building on the lot, and longterm plans may include the building of an indoor public

"This kind of community area is badly needed in Oakland. McCain said He noted that the only other area currently meeting that need is the Center Street School playground, which is now closed because of the restoration of the school for Com-Action offices, Al though the playground will be restored for use, according to Duane Yoder, Community Action director, it may not be as large as it once was simply because the building will be in use

This new playground area would definitely relieve the problem at Center Street, McCain said Oakland's obligations to the project would be met through in-kind service. McCain reported. The town will most likely provide wa-ter and sewer line hook-up as well as road grading and help in the demolition of the existing buildings. A market study to determine the area's housing needs has been done at the cost of the town as well. This study waneeded in order for the planners to create a design that would not only satisfy the three groups but also truly provide a development that would meet the needs of the local community

Some citizen in attendance were he tant to accept the low-income portion of the arrangement, fearful of a replay of the Bradley Manor situation. Some asked why the town didn't just insist on the demolition of the area

M.C. first stated that the Dentine and Thayers' Garrett and history of ability it, building and maintaining wincome housing was a great track record Mountain Lake Park Mayor David Turney was in attendance and he endorsed the two panies as well

Ch. 40 Mountain Lake Park residents came to our rong greating several years age for the Pinewoods East descopment Everyone was i to death that the desempment would become the next Bradley Manor Well, that just didn't hap-Jan We have had relatively few problems there, and at our next zoning meeting, we had two people show up That shows you that people aren't nearly as afraid of this kind of development now, Turney said 'It you think that anything Devlin and Garrettland build and manage is going to go the way of Bradley Manor, you're terribly wrong. They simply won't let that happen." To answer the question of why the renovation idea has been pursued, McCain explained to the citizens that the court order to compromise came after a long fight to get rid of the failed buildings. One option left to the town at one time was auctioning it off

We definitely didn't want to go that way because who knows who would have gotten it then? It could have gotten even worse than it is now if the wrong people bought it." He also explained that the town may have ended up with no control at all He said zoning the entire area was considered as well but what exists on the land now would be "grandfathered in' and no improvements could be made in that case

The plan will be presented to the judge on August 11. If it is approved, construction may begin in six months. The first 32 units will be built and work on the playground will begin. The playground will be located in the flood plain, as no structures can be placed there. Extensive drainage work is included in the blueprint, M Cain said

The Oakland Associates, headed by Morton Sarubin. will receive no benefits from the housing development and will pay the liens against the property, McCain explained The taxes currentagainst the development $50,000 to the county and $25,000 to the town - will have to be paid

One citizen expressed concern as to how children would get to the playground because there are no lidewalks along Liberty Street McCain said that was a good point, and that issue would have to be addressed

This is just a plan, the mayor reiterated. "It's not the best plan, but it is the best we all could come up with to meet everyone needs and expectations He added that HUD was not totally pleased with the plan and still wishes to sell the place at auction. The department has sued three times to get that option and has lost each time "I suspect HUD may sue again," McCain said. "But they haven't won yet

If the plan does through and is begun, it will be completed section by section over a span of two vears. A name for the development has not been announced, although McCun asserted that it will definitely not be called Bradley Manor

Concerns Aired

The letter from Williams continued. Multiple payroll, payables, and related accounting costs, plus insurance and management costs, constitute unnecessary expenses which we can no onger afford "

Wolfe stated, however, that she has not been shown any evidence of savings being realized by the privatization, especially if the current employees are to be hired on a contractual basis by the state and paid state wages. as the proposal suggests

She also stated that, regarding uniformity, the centers throughout the state have been operating with some degree of uniformity for the last 10 years, and she didn't see that issue as a major concern. Regarding the saving of money, she said she could not understand how that could be accomplished if the current employees of each local information center are going to be making state-level wages after the privatization oc-

The Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council currently has a three-year contract to operate the Youghiogheny Overlook Information Center. If the state moves to privatize the system, that contract will be canceled or allowed to expire and, according to Wolfe's best estimation, bids would then be taken by the state from private contrac-

Wolfe also voiced her concern about the possibility of businesses being charged an annual for for placing brochures in the information centers if they are to be operated by a single state contractor, and about the effect, in general, the privatization will have on busi nesses ii. Garrett and Alle-

It is estimated that only about 50 percent of eligible women in the county are being served, however, Bass said, noting that efforts Walis" Seminar continue to identify and make eligible persons aware of WIC's services

For every $1 spent through WIC, $3 in medical expenses are saved," she said Garrett County Health Officer Dr. Rex Archer also thanked the commissioners and the community for their support "These programs are really making a difference, he said

According to Bass, Garrett County has reduced its infant mortality and merbidity rates significantly over the years, and the WIC program has been an important contributing factor in that reduction

"College Without Slated At GCC

A free seminar titled 'College Without Walls" will be presented by Garrett Community College on August 20, from 5 to 7 p.m., in Room 307 of the Continuing Education Center The seminar will deal with ways for persons who have ac quired learning outside the walls of college classrooms to receive college credit for this learning

The learning may have been acquired through experience on the job, in the military, as a volunteer, or in other activities, according to Joan B Crawford. director of enrollment development Garrett Community College had developed the Lafe Experience Assessment Program (LEAP) through which prior learning can be evaluated and equated to college credit

Crawford explained that there are various ways for students to receive this nontraditional credit, including portfolio development. CLEP tests, challenge exams, and performance evaluation At the seminar, George McDowell, director of the LEAP, will explain these and answer questions about the process

Two special courses for adults seeking non-traditional credit will be offered by the college in the fall semester A one-credit course in Portfolio Development (LS 104) will be offered at arranged times, and a special section of Expository Writing (ENG 101) will he offered on Monday evenings from 5 to 8 p.m. In this course students will have writing assignments pertaining to their careers and work experience

Persons intending to attend the "College Without Walls" seminar are advised to reserve a space by calling the GCC Admissions Office at 387-6666 or 215-4221

An Interview With Tom Wopat

by Pam Ashby

He began the telephone conversation with, "Pam, first let me apologize for not calling you the day when I was supposed to. My flight was delayed and you know how that goes " (Yeah, right I've been on an airplane once and was so heavily sedated I didn't even know my name.) Well, anyway, what a nice guy, this Tom Wopat. How many stars would begin a conversation by humbling themselves with an apology? He's got my attention now. And to the best of my recollection and my scribbled notes here is my interview with Tom Wopat, who will be performing at the Garrett County Agriculture Fair on Tuesday, August 11, at 8 p.m. and 9:30 p.m Me: Tom, have you ever been to Garrett County or Western Maryland? Tom: Refresh my memory. Where are you located? name some towns. some landmarks

Me: Ever hear of Oakland? No, not the one in California, Okav, How about Deep Creek Lake? No. Well. you've definitely never been

Tom: No. but I'm looking forward to it. I grew up in a small town in Wisconsin in dairy farming country. I love county fairs and festivals. They are a gas. I really enjoy signing autographs and getting close to the folks who appreciate my music.

Me: I have to admit that country music is not my forte, but I do enjoy some What I know you best for is The Dukes of Hazzard watched that show in reruns at 4 a.m. when my 10-yearold was a baby. But I hear you're trying to shake that

Tom: Well, you know Pam, it's like Sean Connery No matter what he does he'll always be 007. I don't mind being known as a the next 20 years." When Fousek was asked to comment on that outlook, he stated, "It is safe to say that H. Dale Miller, the primary stockholder of Mountain Fresh Meats, met with the county commissioners and Tom Jones this week view Miller's future intentions relative to the business in Garrett County, its mode of operation, and its continuitv missioners will be taking those issues under advisement and will be seeking additional information relative to Miller's business plans. The commissioners declared the "event of default" because the company had fallen behind in its rent payments, according to Jones. Mountain Fresh Meats took up occupancy in the industrial park in August 1991 Miller and his business partner, Gary Hirschler, are the co-owners of H & G Meats, located in College Park. The operation there was reportedly closed down in March because of a violation of federal inspection regulations. That shutdown also affected the local manufacturing plant, which was suspended from U.S. Department of Agriculture inspec tion services for two weeks during the month of March Bope was also found in possession of lock-picking tools and a quantity of marijuana. She and a male companion were allegedly breaking into vending machines at the Grantsville Holiday Inn and when police arrived to investigate, the man with Bope reportedly fled on foot into a nearby wooded area.

Police have identified the man who is wanted for questioning in connection with the 9 p.m. incident.

Bope was released on her own recognizance following a District Court bond hearing In an unrelated theft case, Leslie J. Werling, 32, West Miflin, Pa., was charged with theft and possession of a controlled dangerous substance.

Werling was arrested by Tfc. J.W. Hare whose investigation revealed that Werling was reportedly observed taking two Keyser's Ridge Truck Stop T-shirts and two cartons of cigarettes on Sunday. She was seen leaving in a black Subaru. She allegedly returned to the truck stop again the next day and management called police. When police arrived, they found Werling to be in possession of the stolen items. A subsequent search also revealed a

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR), State Forest and Park Service, recently announced new additions to Swallow Falls State Park including a new park entrance sign and an interpretive display

The park sign, pictured above with Park Ranger Lisa Baker, was made from an eight-foot section cut from a large hemlock tree which had fallen across a major trail in the park. According to Baker, trees that fall are normally left lying where they dropped, but a great deal of damage was being done by people detouring around this tree. The log was cut out to expose the existing trail and the remaining stump will be used as an interpretive display.

The Herrington Manor State Park sawmill was used to prepare the log and it was sanded, routered, and painted. It was finally set upon two large stones at the park entrance

"Just about everyone had a part in the project before and after I finished the

"Perhaps this new sign will draw attention and interest to this other unique feature of Swallow Falls State Park," she said.

Another addition to the park is an interpretive display placed at the trailhead to Muddy Creek Falls. It features old photographs and information, tracing the history of the park prior to state ownership in 1940. Baker noted that several local people lent the photographs and gave information to assist the park in compiling the display. She and Randy Reichard, park volunteer, were able to assemble it before the Memorial Day

For High School Diploma Tougher

Governor William Donald Schaefer announced that the Maryland State Board of Education has agreed to tougher graduation requirements for students entering grade nine in 1993. He said the new graduation requirements will strengthen students' academic preparation for college and employment

The new high school graduation standards require all students to perform student service before they graduate, making Maryland the first state in the nation to enact such a requirement. Since 1985, local school systems in Maryland have been required to provide service opportunities for high school students.

A motion to delete the student service requirement failed on a 7-3 vote. Other motions to modify the requirements also failed, as many board members said local school systems have the option of adding requirements not included in the state's minimum graduation requirements. State School Superintendent Nancy Grasmick said the new requirements move Maryland a major step forward in preparing our young people for the increasing challenges they face." The requirements bolster efforts to meet the six national education goals by the year 2000, she said

The State Board developed the new graduation requirements after receiving the report of a state task force in January 1991. Key recommendations of the task force stem from the State Board's request that the panel study ways of eliminating the "general" high school track and requiring all students to prepare for post-high school study or career employ-The new requirements recognize the important role of career and technology programs, which emphasize the application of academic content and skills, in preparing young people for careers.

In the past 18 months, the Board has held public hearings and numerous discussions with state and local education officials. The Board received comments from more than 800 citizens at a hearing in October 1991, and the requirements adopted today reflect

Habitat for Humanity workers came from Lexington, N.C., last week to erect a home for Tom and

Jenny Fint and their two daughters The home is built in the Shaffer develop-ment in the Youghiogheny forest area. Preparing of the foundation and placing of sills, joists, and floor had readied the site for the erection of the exterior and interior walls, the placing of rafter walls, the placing of rafters and roof, complete with shingles. They also installed windows and doors and added a deck to the rear ol the home

There were 32 youth, mostly of high school age, with five adult advisors present to work on the house and to hold a Vacation Bible School in Bretz They were housed in the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building while using showers at the Aurora School

This group brought their own supplies of food, tools, and, in addition to the labor, also brought a large gift of money for the erection of the home. Citizens of the area also helped with the home's erection and they shared a picnic on one evening with the Aurora U.M. youth and on another, at the Maple Spring Church Their work completed by Saturday, the day was spent in sightseeing at nearby Blackwater Falls and they ended their stay on Sunday morning with a

SPIROMETRY TESTING A number of persons in Governor William Donald Schaefer has announced that Maryland is the first state in the nation to require students to perform community service as a condition of high school graduation. The announce ment followed approval of a set of tough new gradua-tion requirements by the Maryland State Board of Education at its meeting last week

At a public hearing last October, several hundred educators and citizens gave their views on the proposed student service requirement. Support for the proposal came from students who have participated in service programs, corporate executives, and state and national education leaders.

Under the new regulation, students will be required to complete either 75 hours of student service in their schools or commu nities or a program designed by the local school system and approved by the State Superintendent of Schools Maryland's student ser vice programs have earned national attention since 1985, when the State Board required school systems to make community service programs available to high school students Student service was seen as a way for students to learn key citizenship skills by taking action to meet the needs of their communities and, in so doing, gain new insights and values

The Maryland State Department of Education, along with the Governor's Office on Volunteerism, last month received $2.8 million from the Commission on National and Community Service to support schoolbased and community. based service projects.

Maryland's new graduation requirements will also bring major changes in the public schools by requiring students to choose between high school programs that prepare them for college or

CHAPTER I PROGRAM IN PROGRESS - Approximately 200 students who will enter grades two through five this fall are currently participating in a county-wide Chapter I Summer Program designed to provide assistance in areas of reading and math. While a lead teacher assists with implementation and monitoring, 20 additional teachers conduct weekly home visitations. During these visits, teachers instruct the students as well as teach sound instructional strategies to the parents. The parents then use these strategies to work with the children on assigned lessons. The activities are designed to stimulate thinking and increase motivation, according to education board officials, and ultimately encourage parental involvement and help meet individual needs of the participating students. "Your Health Is Our Business" Yogurt May Prevent Yeast Infections

According to a recent report in Annals of Internal Medicine, researchers at Long Island Jewish Medical Center in New York may have discovered an effective way of preventing vaginal yeast infections. Dr. Eileen Hilton and associates studied 13 women who ate 8 ounces of yogurt containing live cultures of the bacteria Lactobacillius acidophilus. The women are yogurt containing this bacteria for six months and then did not eat yogurt for six months. There was a three-fold decrease in vaginal yeast infections reported during the time yogurt was eaten as compared to the period when no yogurt

Nominations For Golden Ambassador

The Autumn Glory Festival Committee and the Deep Creek Lake Garrett County Promotion Council have announced that selection of the Honorary Golden Ambassador of the 25th Annual Autumn Glory Festival will again be conducted by ballots submitted by the Ambassador program began in 1985 as an opportunity for recognition of local persons who have made major contributions to the Autumn Glory Festival and/or rec reation and tourism in Garrett County Past Honorary Ambassadors have been: 1985, Tom Butscher: 1986, R. T. Thayer, 1987, Rev. I. Lynn. Beckman. 1988, I.R. Ruby Jr.: 1989, Helmuth M. Heise, 1990.

Three Drug Cases Are Heard In

Three criminal cases involving controlled dangerous substances CDS were heard last week in Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Fred A. Thayer presided at the proceedings. Two persons were convicted of various CDS charges while one defendant's case was not prosecuted Rickey D. Miller, 28, York, Pa., was sentenced to one year in the Garrett County Jail after he pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana with intent to distribute. Thayer suspended all but 30 days of the jail term and ordered two years of supervised probation

Miller was arrested following a traffic stop on April 24 The defendant was apparently exceeding the 55 miles per hour speed limit when he was stopped by a Maryland State Policeman. The officer reportedly noticed a plastic baggie containing possible marijuana in the vehicle and searched the car. He found five more bags of the suspected illegal drug

The case of the week for Garrett County Crime Solvers concerns a theft case that occurred sometime this spring

Home interior items worth nearly $500 were removed from a storage trailer located at Martin's Junkyard on U.S. Rt. 219, north of Ben DeWitt Road, Oakland. The theft occurred sometime between May 21-

The stolen property was owned by Charlene Arnold and included several watercolor paintings, ceramic deer and cat figurines, and brass candle holders

Any person who may have information about this or any other unsolved crime is urged to contact Crime Solvers at 334-1975. Callers do not have to give their names nor appear in court. Those who provide tipe that lead to arrests are eligible to

Trends in employee pension experiences put new emphasis on the need to plan ahead. Retirement at 65 and living happily on Social Security benefits plus pension payments used to be a common prospect for Americans. But the percentage of fulltime employees covered by pension plans is declining -- it fell from 50 to 46 percent in the 1980s. One way to build a nest egg is to take advantage of Individual Retirement Accounts, 401 (k) plans and other tax-deferred opportunities to accumulate savings that will augment Social Security benefits.

James J. McCarthy went to work at 18 as a messenger in a state agency in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. He stayed on, was promoted and finally retired 63 years and three months later ashead of an insurance division of the Public Utility Commission. His career was the longest of any state employee, and he enjoyed it: "Hike the people at work and I like to help people," he said.

Rate Increase

In an application filed last week with the Mary-land Public Service Com-mission, the Potomac Edison Company has requested an increase in its Maryland electric rates designed to produce additional annual revenues of $23 million. The company has requested the new rates become effective August 28, 1992, but expects that the increase will be suspended until February 24, 1993. During that time, the Public Service Commission will hold hearings on the pro-posed rate hike.

The proposed rate increase will generate 7.5 per-cent in additional overall revenues annually. The percentage increase will vary, however, among residen-tial, commercial, and industrial classifications. Average residential customers using 1,000 kilowatt hours of electricity a month would seek their costs rise $5.63, from $62.35 to $67.98, according to a PE spokesman.

Potomac Edison says it is experiencing increased costs of operating and maintaining electrical facilities to provide reliable service to it 180,000 customers in Maryland. "The company's aging generating facilities, which have continuously operated at high levels of reliability and availability, require enhanced levels of maintenance to ensure continued outstanding operating performance. Increases in operation and maintenance expense account for 75 percent of the requested $23 million," the spokesman

The company last filed for a rate increase in April 1991 based on 1990 information, receiving $11.1 million of a requested $27.1 million. This increase fell short of compensating

Potomac Edison for costs associated with connecting new customers and with power station and rightsof-way maintenance, according to the spokesman

Prayers & Promises

"Knock, and it will be opened unto you: seek, and you will find." (Matthew 7:7)

In this one short verse from God's Holy Word appear two prayers and two promises.

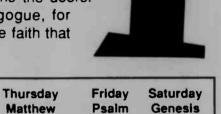

We are instructed to "knock" and "seek." These are forms of prayer . . . attempts to discover unseen answers known only to our Heavenly Father. Then, after prayer, come the promises. . . the answers to our prayers; "it will be opened unto you" . . . "you will

Now, there is only one missing element, but a very important one. That element is faith, and faith is the key. Matthew 21:22 states it plainly. "And whatever you ask in prayer, you will receive, if you have faith."

So, there you have it . . . the key that unopens the doors. This Sabbath, visit your local church or synagogue, for behind that door lie prayers and promises and the faith that opens doors.

Background Scripture: 1 Timothy 6:2c-21. Devotional Reading:

August 9, 1992

1 John 3:7-12. Paul never said, as some suppose, that money is the root of all evil. What Paul said was that "the love of money is the root of all evils" (1 Tim. 6:10). If our churches were to ask each of their members to sign a statement to that effect, I'm sure there would be few to refuse or disagree. We all acknowledge it, almost without exception.

Yet, though all or most of us would gladly agree that dependence on material things is contrary to the gospel of Jesus Christ, most of us seem to live as if material things are what really matter Most often in our society, when spiritual and material interests are in conflict, the material interests almost invariably win out. I realize that is a sweeping statement, but, before you disagree to heatedly, take a look at your daily newspaper or the evening television news; in each story or report what motivates the person(s) involved? It is not money, it is what money can buy -- or what we assume money can buy.

THIS CRAVING

So, when it comes to the spiritual vs. the material, it matters little what we say on this subject, if material things dominate the lives that we lead. Paul suggests that material things become so important to us that they become a substitute for God: it is through this craving that some have wandered away from the faith and pierced their hearts with many pangs" (6:10b). That is also why Jesus said, "You cannot serve God and money." If you serve the one, you cannot also serve the

If the preface to his Night unto Night, Philip Wylie says that "Materialism is man's defiant attempt to overshadow destiny with the panoply of cities, the hurtling activity of his body, the absorption of his five senses through ceaseless compulsion -- with toys and furnishings, games, stone jewelry, and fine possessions -- with listening and looking and smelling and touching and tasting -- with all and everything that serves to stave off introspection for a minute, an hour, a lifetime." Things keep us from being aware of God or even realizing our need for Him.

NOT TO BE HAUGHTY Things also tend to make us arrogant and proud. Paul says, "As for the rich in this world, charge them not to be haughty, nor to set their hopes on uncertain riches but on God who richly furnishes us with everything to enjoy" (6:27). Actually, the rich person is falsely secure, for the things to which he looks for his comfort and his salvation can neither save him, comfort him or even be taken along in death.

Note, that Paul never says that we shouldn't have and enjoy things, but only that we should not depend on them and live for them. It's not the things that are our problem, but our love of them. our tendency to act as if things are what really mat-

"I'll Fly Away" is set in a small Southern town in the late '50s. Sam Waterston plays Forrest Bedford, a local prose cutor who is finding a lot of the assumptions he grew up with and never seriously questioned being challenged by a burgeoning civil-rights movement. Taylor plays Lilly Harper. Forrest's black housekeeper who looks after his

'I saw the opportunity in this character to show a black woman of this period and in this profession in a way that probably had never been seen before." Taylor says. "And that's what drew me to it. Many times before you have this same character, but she's portrayed as a shadow in the household. This character, you see her as a woman as a mother, as a daughter, as a sister, as someone who's recog-nizable in the black community, someone with her own hopes and dreams."

Asked if she has a five-year or 10-year career plan, Taylor, who comes from Dallas and worked primarily in the New York theater prior to "I'll Fly

Travelers Advised Of Delays Along Rts. I-70 And I-81

The State Highway Administration (SHA) advises motorists travelling Interstate 70 near the Pennsylvanie state line or Interstate 81 southbound from Maryland into West Virginia to expect delays, especially during periods of high traffic volume such as La-bor Day weekend.

Delays are the result of current construction projects by the Maryland SHA and the West Virginia and Pennsylvania Departments of Transportation.

The Pennsylvania Department of Transportation is adding an additional lane to 1-70's westbound side approaching the connection of U.S. Route 30. Traffic is being narrowed to one lane along a one-and-a-half mile stretch of I-70 south of Breezewood in Pennsylvania's Bedford County.

In Maryland, construc-tion is underway on I-70, replacing decks on two bridges spanning Pennsylvania Avenue at Hancock, and erecting new safety barriers on several other bridges.

According to Wallace Beaulieu, SHA Director Engineer for Allegany, Gar-

by late fall with the bridge deck replacement to be complete by year's end. "During Memorial Day and July 4th, motorists experienced some delays and backups due to increased traffic through the Maryland and Pennsylvania work zones. Drivers planning to take I-70 and the Pennsylvania turnpike on Labor Day weekend may want to alter their travel plans -- leave early, stay late -- to avoid the traffic," Beaulieu said.

According to Beaulieu, Maryland and Pennsylvania highway officials have been working together "to ensure traffic will move as

"Tree-Mendous" Program Receives National Award

William Governor Donald Schaefer has announced that the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) "Tree-Mendous Maryland" program was honored July 21 in Washington, D.C., as one of three Maryland winners in the sixth annual Take Pride in America awards presentation.

Actress Linda Evans esented the DNR Public Lands and Urban Forestry Division program with the award. The tree reforestation project was recognized as one of the 100 individuals, organisations, govern-ment agencies and busi-nesses honored in the national program.

In making the announcement, Governor Schaefer said, "I am very proud to see Maryland's programs so well represented in this national effort. This award really goes to the thousands of Marylanders who gave of themves to enhance our natu ral resources.

land" creates urban forests throughout the state as well as preserves the Chesapeake Bay through an ambitious tree planting effort. Designed to inform and educate citizens about the "regreening" of Maryland, the program's staff of two people with an organized volunteer force of more than 40,000 people, planted 1.3 million trees in 1990 and an additional 1.6 million trees

Take Pride in America, a partnership of millions of volunteers, all 50 states, 14 federal agencies and the private sector, aims to educate and motivate Americans to preserve and enhance the nation's natural, cultural and historic public resources. The competition, which drew over 800 en-trants for the best Take Pride activities during 1991, will be accepting nomina-tions for 1992 until November 2. Governor Notes "Growing...Not Mowing" Effort

Governor William Donald Schaefer has an-nounced that the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) State Forest and Parks Service is permitting areas to return to their natural condition through regrowth within state forests, parks and public lands.

The new plan, "Growing...Not Mowing," is a multi-faceted effort by DNR officials which enhances wildlife habitat, acts as a filter to improve water quality and reduces both gasoline consumption and the amount of pollutants allowed into the air.

Governor Schaefer kicked off the program on August 1. He said the environmentally-friendly practice of "Growing...Not Mowing," which minimizes impacts upon natural habitats, will continue as a year-round practice. For more information, persons may call Bruce Wilkens, DNR State Forests and Parks, at (410) 974-3771.

Picnics have been around for as long as anyone can remember. A "picnic" originally meant a meal with each guest contributing a different course...today's potluck. By the late eighteenth century, picnics had moved outdoors and featured both cold and hot dishes. In the nineteenth century, picnics became a playground for respectable Victorian ladies and gentlemen to mingle with one another.

oday's picnics inspire creativity and imagination. Whether it's on the sundeck of a high-rise building, during halftime at a football game, in the middle of an empty living room or in a beautiful green meadow, a picnic means good food, good company and plenty of time for tun and relaxation. Out-of-the-ordinary cuisme and exotic costumes can add a lot to an ordinary picnic in the park. How about planning a "Midnight at the Oasis picnic" Serve guests pita triangles with olives and hummus and fresh figs and dates under a starry sky on a warm summer night Or, ask your guests to dress in their most outrageous tourist attire - binoculars, singlasses, shell jewelry and t-shirts-for a "Tacky Tourist" pienic. Finish the evening on a sweet note with a slice of Chocolate Sunshine Cake—an aromatic blend of chocolate and orange flavors.

The following recipes are national winners of the Handi-Wrap* Hand-Me-Down Picnic Recipe Contest and family favorites that have been passed from generation to generation. Some are traditional "picnic" style dishes, which have gone through a few changes along the way to keep up with the trends of taste and nutrition, while others have remained intact as they have been handed along the family tree. All are picnic classics that are sure to become favorites in your family's picnic basket

Picnic Essentials

Good weather is key to a successful picnic, and so is planning. If you organize everything the night before, you'll minimize the risk of leaving something important behind. These hints will help you pack the perfect picnic

A Start with a checklist so you won't forget; can opener, bottle opener, sharp knile with a cover, corkscrew, small cutting board, two serving spoons, two potholders, napkins, Handi-Wrap for covering leftovers, salt and pepper, reusable dinnerware silverware, flashlight, first aid kit are packs for perishable goods, pre-moistened towel cities to wipe hands, charcoal, lighter fluid, matches and a

thermos of water for extinguishing files

Be environmentally wise, I se picnic utensils that are recyclable or reusable. If your picnic site doesn't have a trash container, pack extra trash bags to remove your litter—sorted for recycling - after the picnic

Old sheets and bedspreads make great pienic "blankets"

(a-1) your picnic area is wer, use an old shower curtam, plastic drop clothor poncho under your blanket to prevent moisture from putting a damper on the fun-

· lake along cushions or large pillows for lounging, enjoying lazy chatter, warm sunlight or a short

When picnicking away from home, be sure to call ahead to your destination for rules governing picnicking, lires, cans or bottles Ask if there is a shelfered area in case of ram

Don't forget to pack games, a camera and plenty of insect repellent and sunscreen.

AHEC Assisting In Recruitment Of Health Professionals

Ten new health professional graduates began their careers in Western Maryland this year through the cooperative efforts of the Western Maryland Area Health Education Center (AHEC) and the regional health professional community. While some are area natives, others were first introduced to Western Maryland through the AHEC's Clinical Education Program which arranges clinical experiences in this rural region for students in training at universities throughout the mid-Atlantic region. As a regional, interdisciplinary training center, the Western Mary. land AHEC helps students learn about clinical care, health services, and public health policy in a rural or small city location.

Among those who accepted positions within Western Maryland are Melissa Copeland, recreational therapist at Dennett Road Nursing Home, Oakland, and William Yant, dentist with the Dental Health Group, Oakland.

Ruth Wood, director of clinical education and placement services at the AHEC, believes that all the graduates were influenced in their selection of Western Mary land professional positions by the positive clinical education experiences they had within the region. Nine were students with the AHEC, and the tenth, a Cum berland native also completed clinical training in Western Maryland "Bill Yant, from Baltimore, was looking to leave the metropolitan area for a small town place to raise a family. Upon graduation he entered a dental practice in Oakland with the dentist who supervised him during his clini-cal experience," Wood said.

Eight of the 10 are natives of Western Maryland and were encouraged by the AHEC efforts to choose placements within their hometown areas rather than move away. Most also participated in the Western Maryland AHEC's Clinical Education Program and had returned home for clinical experiences from various universities out of the re-

AHEC is promoting the entire region as "a beautiful place to live, work and play' and is encouraging those about to graduate from health professional training to consider the lifestyle and health career opportunities that exist in Washington, Allegany, and Garrett counties and the surrounding region. According to Wood, the AHEC is not a recruiter for any particular health care facility, but works rather with the individual student to help him or her

The AHEC developed a poster and brochure depicting the region's natural beauty which ask the reader to "Discover Western Maryland... A Rich History Warm People. Incredible Scenery." These materials are being distributed at educational career fairs and to university career placement offices. Attending career fairs at educational institutions and encouraging the AHEC's clinical education students to choose professional positions within the region will continue to be top priorities, Wood said

Master's Level Course In Social Work Offered

The University of Maryland at Baltimore (UMAB) is planning to offer a master's level social work course in Western Maryland beginning in September 1992. The course, Human Behavior and the Social Environment I, to be taught by Alfred Lucco, PhD, is the first outreach class in a new master's level social work program for the region. Using distance learning methods, the course will be offered weekly on interactive video at Frostburg State University.

The Social Work Caucus the Western Maryland Area Health Education Center(AHEC), in Cumberland, has worked cooperatively with the UMAB School of Social Work for over two years to develop a UMAB Western Maryland Master of Social Work (MSW) Program. The fall class is the first of a two-part sequence of human behavior classes. It is a requested foundation course in the MSW Program and should be completed prior to continuing on in the MSW program in January. This is the only opportunity to take Human Behavior and Social Environ-

PRESTIGE - ELEGANCE - LUXURY - UNIQUENESS

These words describe homes of special quality, or features over and sometimes far-above the necessary utility one finds in ordinary home construction. Several of these homes are architect-designed and include upscale interior design features, particularly in the kitchens and baths. Skylights, expansive stonework and glass, high ceilings, multiple living centers, and large decks are just a few of the extras you will find in the homes described below.

MARSH HILL ROAD

Nowhere on Deep Creek Lake will you find a home any better suited for entertaining or fo a large number of overnight guests. This home has totally private master bedroom and guest suites, including private baths, kitchenettes, and private entrances. The four bathrooms are nothing short of lavish with their Jacuzzi and Infinity tubs, Kohler lavatories and toilets, and showers w/automatic temperature control. Extras include motorized skylights throughout, commercial-grade heating and hot water systems, a kitchen to delight any chef featuring Jenn Air appliances, Sub-Zero refrigerator with custom door to match cherry kitchen cabinets, large great room with connecting bar area, DuPont Stainmasler carpeting, Hunter paddle fans, litiple decks overlooking the lake front, and so much more! Close to 18-hole golf course and ski slopes.

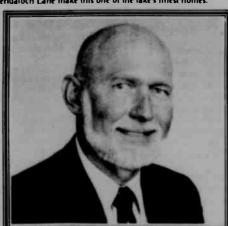

STATE PARK ROAD

This home was constructed for a family building their "dream home" on one of Deep Creek Lakes finest view-lots. There were no cost-cutting shortcuts. The western-exposure view spans nearly three miles across the widest portion of the lake. The rooms throughout are large. There are private quarters for guests, or children or grandchildren, including family room, kitchenette and bath. Most rooms face the lake. The 2-car garage with paved driveway connects with the kitchen for convenience. There is walnut paneling and cathedral ceiling in the living room. The heating system is oil hot water baseboard, providing the ultimate in comfort and even heat. The property is very nicely landscaped. And the brick construction of this beautiful home makes it

DEEP CREEK DRIVE

This home represents an excellent marriage of old and new construction. The original house is a charming Hansel and Gretel, western-Maryland fieldstone cottage built in the 1940's. The wormy-chestnut interior is a piece of history, since this wood is no longer available. The recently-built portion of the home is designed along a contemporary theme and blends architecturally with the original cottage. The master bedroom suite is nothing short of lavish. The bath is all-Kohler, there is a large custom vanity in the bedroom, his and her's walk-in custom closets, skylights, and private balcony. The great room includes an open, oak statrway and 24' cathedral ceilings. Nearly 2,000 sq. ft. of deck and patro overlook the lake, including a hot tub area. A view of the lake through huge plantation oak trees is available from most rooms and all decks. The quality of appointments throughout the home and the excellent, central location on Glendaloch Lane make this one of the lake's finest homes.

Ed King Associate Broker, G.R.I.

SANDY DAM

This architect-designed home is being built by Gosnell Construction at Sandy Dam off Stockslager Road, Construction features native dry-stack stonework around the foundation fireplace and chimney. Year-round climate control is provided via the LP gas forced-air furnace with whole-house air conditioning. Features include: rough-sawn oak exposed ceiling beams. hardwood and ceramic tile flooring, cathedral ceiling, bridge to upper-level bedrooms, oak stairway, distressed kitchen cabinets, raised-door panels with exquisite trim detail, Kohler fixtures, 6° extenor walls with insulation rating exceeding standard, and large decks. The location is a very private neighborhood.

PENN COVE

Complete synergistic harmony of this home with its setting is the hallmark of this property. This tip-of-Penn-Cove lot fronts 328 ft. on the Buffer Strip, and more than 400 ft. at the waters edge. The view is to the southeast to the main lake, flanked on one side by Pergin Farm. The grounds are professionally landscaped with shrubs. flowers, and White Beach trees around the house and driveway. The house is designed with intimate nooks and rooms that create a warm, comfortable feeling. For example, there is a small sunroom and a covered porch overlooking the lake front, an open deck, a library/den, a loft reading area, a breakfast bar, and a large family room. The appointments throughout are of the finest quality-top of the-line Pella windows and doors, upscale lighting, and Berber carpeting - to name a few. The location is ideal for boating activities, yet convenient for traveling to golf courses, restaurants, shops, services, and winter

Grantsville Ag Service Plans Annual Meeting

Since its founding by farmers 69 years ago. Southern States Cooperative has been innovative in serving the agriculture industry Today it continues to introduce new products and services to improve the livelihood of farmers," says Carroll Gilbert, the co-op's director of member and institutional relations.

According to Gilbert, the cooperative's strides and aims are reflected in the theme selected in 1991 and repeated for this year's annual membership meetings "Cultivating Innovation

Among the highlights of the annual membership meeting for Grantsville Ag Services will be the election of local board members. Other program features innouncement of appointment of Farm Home Advisory Committee members, and operations reports, which will be presented at noon, Friday August 14, at the local Southern States dealership, with the business session starting at 4

The House passed the wetlands study provision in the Environmental Protection Agency funding bill. It would provide $500,000 for the study

Mark Maslyn, an American Farm Bureau Federation assistant director of national affairs, said: "Farm Bureau is strongly opposed to the NAS study. It is an attempt by environmental groups to delay final resolution of the wetlands delineation issue

The Senate Appropriations committee was scheduled to work on its version of the EPA funding bill at press time. Farm Bureau is working to keep the wetlands study provision out of the Senate version

Find the Right Price!

How would you react to an auto dealership that priced its new cars at full retail plus 10 percent? Would you buy one? What if you compared prices on a particular model G.E. refrigerator at several stores and found that one store had added a 15 percent surcharge? Would you buy from that store? If you plan to sell your home, your greatest challenge is to determine a price that will sell the home. Overpricing will create three serious impediments to the successful sale of your home

First, buyers compare sumlar homes before making apurchase. Savvy buyers will use the overpriced home as a benchmark to compare the more favorable prices of others - which they later purchase

Second, overpricing encourages low offers Buyers will compare your home to others If they find it priced too high, they may offer considerably less than your asking price. This may result in your home selling at a price far below "fair market value

Finally, even if a buyer agrees to pay your price, the home will be appraised for mortgage loan purposes. A low appraisal will often scuttle what, at first glance, appeared to be a great sale

To avoid long marketing times, and disappointingly low offers to purchase, price your home to sell - from the first day! To do this, ask your real estate agent to provide a detailed accounting of all home sales in your area over the past 12 months

Compare your home to those which have sold and eliminate from consideration those homes not similar to vours. Finally, eliminate extreme cases, those homes sold for the highest and lowest pnces

You will be left with the sales which give a strong indication of the probable selling price range for your home. Avoid using the asking price of homes currently for sale They are a reflection of tomorrow's dreams, not today's realities A fair price can lead to a satisfying sale If you're planning to sell your home soon and would like information on its current value, give us a call at 387-5303 or come by our office located at McHenry

Not Sleeping Is The Enemy

I know a lot of farmers who work long hours, particularly this time of the season. According to an article in Time, sleep deprivation is one of the major causes of work place mishaps The majority of adults require eight hours of sleep, but many foolishly take pride in getting by on less, the article stated "People who don't get enough sleep cannot think, they cannot make appropriate judgments, and they cannot maintain long attention spans," said Dr. Charles Pollak of Cornell University. "As little as one night of not enough sleep can inhibit concentration, flexibility, and creativity." As many as 200,000 auto accidents a year may be sleep-related Between 4 a m. and 6 a.m., the rate of fatigue-induced truck accidents is 10 times as high as during the day states during June was a total of 10 8 billion pounds, up two percent from the same month last year. Pro duction per cow was up 43 pounds at an average of 31 period. Minimum tem-1,305 pounds for June. The number of cows on farms was 8.26 million head, 116,000 below June 1991 and 6,000 below May 1992.

Early Corn Begins Maturing

By August 2 kernels in early corn were beginning to dent, and some soybeans were setting pods. The middle of the state continues to have crop problems related to recent shortages of moisture, but other areas have good conditions and prospects.

An average of 4.9 days was suitable for fieldwork during the week ending August 2, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. Across the state, 17 percent of the topsoil was short of moisture, 78 percent was adequate and five percent had surplus moisture. Subsoil moisture was very short in five percent of Maryland, 16 percent was short, 74 percent was adequate and five percent had surplus moisture

Soybeans were in fair condition in mid-state and mostly good elsewhere. Corn was mostly in excel-lent condition. Pastures were poor in mid state but mostly excellent elsewhere. Hay supplies were mostly adequate. Apple and peach trees were in good condition throughout Maryland and peaches and a few apples were being picked.

Maryland's progress for the week ending August 2 was as follows, listing the item, this year's percentage, last year's percentage and a percentage for the 5-year average. Soybeans blooming, 48, 57, 47; setting pods, 9, 21,

Corn silked, 73, 87, 81; dough, 20, 46, 36 Sorghum headed, 19,61,

Hay harvested: alfalfa, third cutting, 25, 61, 35; other, second cutting, 8, 3,

Peaches harvested, 17,

Guest Editorial:

(Reprinted with permission from the August 3 issue of Farm Bureau News.) Wetlands: A Study Ain't The Answer

Involving the National Academy of Sciences in the wetlands controversy will not solve the dilemma. The wetlands problem is not a result of the lack of science but the lack of a clear and rational policy established by Congress to guide

Instead of taking responsibility, the House again wants to sidestep the issue and buy time. The amendment included in the House version of the Environmental Protection Agency appropriations bill would provide one more excuse for Congress and the White House to put off any meaningful solution

A $500,000 NAS study would not be a magic bullet. It wouldn't clarify or solve the controversy. The controversy centers around policy not science. It's Congress' role to set clear and rational policy based on science Those who are subject to wetlands regulations have been sent muddled signals over the last five years. Two wetlands delineation manuals have been issued and the draft of a third has been floating around since last August. The EPA, the Fish and Wildlife Service, the Army Corp of Engineers and others have studied, examined and clarified the scientific aspects of the controversy. Another scientific review in and of itself isn't going to make Congress clear up this mess.

At this late date, the wetlands controversy isn't about science. It's about public policy-making choices from among various competing interests and concerns. Whenever and whatever the academy might conclude, the various interests and concerns will still be around

To date, 175 House members have co-sponsored the Hayes Ridge wetlands bill (H.R. 1330). A handful of others have backed a wetlands study. It was defeated last year and should be again this year. The Senate Appropriations Committee should reject this nonsense

In our view, the wetlands controversy is the result of an expansive wetlands definition being applied to a rig.d and inconsistent patchwork of regulations that grew not by design but by default, not by congressional intent but through litigation and regulatory expansion. It begs for corrective action

Congress has never designed, debated nor enacted a ear and comprehensive wetlands policy for this country Until Congress engages in the policy process, everyone interested and affected by wetlands regulations will continue to debate the "science," with no solution in sight

We need clear, common-sense legislation to end the public wetlands debate The Hayes-Ridge bill is the answer Farm Bureau urges the Congress to hold hearings instead of sweeping this issue under the rug by wasting taxpayers money on an unneeded study

Bus Drivers To Be Tested For Illegal Drug Use

The State Board of Edu cation voted last week to require local school systems to administer drug tests to the state's 8,000 public school bus drivers beginning July 1, 1993

State School Superintendent Nancy Grasmick said, This regulation will strengthen our efforts to ensure that every student riding a school bus is assured of a safe trip each day"

Dr. Grasmick said the regulation is consistent with Governor Schaefer's strong drug-free workplace policy The regulations require local school systems to implement drug testing programs that meet or exceed U.S Department of Transportation standards. The programs will include testing driver trainees before they transport students; testing at least half of drivers selected randomly throughout the year, testing drivers suspected of using illegal drugs; and, at the discretion of the school system, testing drivers immediately after they have been involved in a school bus accident

Under the regulations, school bus drivers who test positive will be permanently disqualified from operating a school bus. The same penalty will be imposed on a driver who fails to show up for an ordered drug test unless there is documented cause for not taking the test

Drug testing is one of seven standards new school bus drivers will be held to under the regulations In addition to satisfactorily passing the drug tests, prospective drivers must also complete driver training and instruction in first aid and other areas and pass the Motor Vehicle Administration physical examina tion for school bus drivers

Drivers must also have at least five years driving experience, have no criminal record, and have no more than two points on their driving record

The regulations also set standards in such areas as the transportation of students with disabilities, ve hicle inspections, and scheduling

Mettik: Coal Corporation is cently conducted a eries of group meetings to increase employee awaresof the problems of alcohol and drug abuse. The announcement of the program comes from George lichnell, superintendent of surface operations. The information and training sessions are being conducted by Floyd R Baker, a surface employee with Mettiki Coal Corporation and past president of the Garrett County Council on Alcohol

"I was surprised at the amount of interest and concern that my tellow employ ees showed for this prob-lem," stated Baker, "Many problems in this community and were very worried about

address several areas of alcohol and drug abuse Topics of the meetings include the types of drugs which are used in the local area, the effect that peer groups have on young people and their choices concerning drugs, the perceptions that young people have concerning the behaviors around them, and the role that adults play in the alcohol and drug abuse problem.

"Parents are role models and potentially best friends for their children," stated Baker. "They must realize that their behavior and values concerning alcohol and other drugs greatly influences the behavior of the young people among them. They must help their children say no!"

Baker went on to explain that the sessions will "make participants aware that

County do feel the pressure to use drugs" and that "all adults and parents should share the responsibilities that today's national drug problem has brought to

America's youth. Tichnell noted that other opportunities will be available for surface employees to hear about the drug problems in the area

We feel that employee health and safety both on and off the job can be influenced by their use of drugs," young people in Garrett stated Tichnell. "These training sessions are important for the well-being of us

Another Volume Of Glades Star Now Available

The Garrett County His torical Society has an nounced the binding of Volume 6 of The Glades Star, its quarterly publication The magazine issues which comprise Volume 6 are those beginning with March 1986 and ending with March 1991

The bound copies of Glade Stars will be for sale for $42.00 at the Society's Museum in Oakland, and the Ruth Enlow Library They can be obtained by mail for an extra $2 for handling. Editor John Grant of the magazine pointed out several items concerning the Volume 6 binding

The binding is dictated accumulated and not by the number of issues. For example, Volume 5 consisted of 35 issues for a total of 716 pages. By the time we completed December 1991, there were already 624 pages in 24 issues, so we decided to end the Volume 6 there Another year would have made the book too big for easy handling "People who purchase the bound volume will note that it has what seem to be two indexes. Actually, one is a partial index which was included in March 1991, our 50th Anniversary issue. At that time a decision to bind Volume 6 had not been made, but we wanted to provide some kind of an index for members of the Historical Society who save their issues of The Glades Star.

Mail order copies may be obtained by writing to Mrs. Martha Kahl, Rt. 3, Box 4542, Deer Park, MD

*INTRODUCING THE SHOP WHERE

It's Forever Christmas Eve.

We call it The Holly & Ivy. You'll call it a very different kind of Christmas shop.

Walk from the heat and glare of midsummer into a cozy parlor that is brimming with the sights, sounds, and aromas of Christmas. In fact, it is Christmas Eve. At The Holly & Ivy, the clock is forever set at 11:15 pm, December 24th. Everything is in readiness for Santa's arrival...and yours.

Fragrant punch, cookies, the whisper of snowflakes at the window, and the reflected glow of wonderful things. Here you can browse at your leisure. If you are pleased with a decoration's effect in our parlor, you can easily imagine its place in your own. Our selection is as varied and many-splendored as the celebration of Christmas. The Holly & Ivy is a work of love. The three of us...Julia Lubis, Debbie Savage, and Nancy Frost...have spent months selecting the kinds of ornaments, decorations, and accessories we love to display in our own homes. The Holly & Ivy opens its door on Saturday, July 4th. So drop by one of these warm summer days...and spend Christmas Eve with us.

We're located in the lower level at The Fort in McHenry, next to Savage Frost. Open seven days a week, from 10am till 6pm. Call us at (301) 387-9111.

Seedlings From Wye Oak Tree To Be Available

Donald Schaefer has an nounced that the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Forestry Division will be selling seedlings for next spring all across the nation from the state tree. the Wye Oak. The biggest white oak in both the state and the nation, the tree is located on Maryland's Eastern Shore in Wye Mills, Talbot County

The governor said the three century-old tree, growing in Wye Oak State Park, is a part of the history of Maryland Standing some 9 feet tall, with a circumference of 31 feet, two inches, and a crown spread of 102 feet, the specimen has been the National Champion for the past 50

The DNR Buckingham Forest Tree Nursery has collected this past season's bumper crop of acorns and has propagated the Wye Oak's seeds. The nursery will have the seedlings for sale at a cost of $25 per tree package. Tax and shipping will be extra and there will be a maximum of 10 trees perorder The seedlings can except California, Louisiana, Oregon, Arizona, and Florida, as plant quaran-

Revised School Meal Pricing Guidelines Noted

Governor William Donald Schaefer has an nounced the revised Income Eligibility Guidelines for free and reduced price meals and free milk. The Guidelines will be in effect from July 1, 1992, through June

Entitlement to free and duced price meals or free milk is determined by household size and income Achild from a family of four. for example, will be entitled to a free lunch and/or break fast, or where available, a free milk, if the household's current income is below $18,135. Last year the figure was $17,420

This coming school year students will pay 40 cents for a reduced price lunch and 30 cents for a reduced price breakfast if, for example, the income for a household of four is between $18,135 and $25,808 Last year's figures in that category were $17,420 to $24,790.

These guidelines are used by schools, institutions, and centers participating in the National School Lunch Program, the School Breakfast Program Patty J. Lohr, 16, the Special Milk Program

gram, do not receive subsidies for one half pints of milk

Separate servings of milk will be available free to eligible students in schools that participate in the Special Milk Program and that have elected the free milk option

Application forms with a letter to parents will be sent to families with children in school at or near the beginning of the school year Information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining and verifying eligibility. This year most of the public school systems will use a new method called "Direct Certification" to approve students for free meals or free milk and reduced price meals. This new method is available as the result of a partnership beween the Food Stamp Policy Division of the Department of Human Resources and the Nutrition and Transportation Ser-State Department of Edu cation. This method allows students who have been certified for food stamps or Aid to Families with Dependent Children to receive free meals without completing an application. It is designed to reduce paper work and improve the delivery of nutrition benefits to Mary land's low income children in public schools

In the operation of the child feeding program, no child will be discriminated against because of race, color, sex, age, handicap, national origin, or ability to pay. If any member of a household believes they have been discriminated against, they should write to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250

Because of federal re quirements, counties verify income information contained on three percent of all approved applications for free and reduced price meals. Applications will not be verified until after they have been approved. The applications to be verified will be randomly selected, and households selected for verification will be notified by the school and told what type of documentation they vill have to submit to prove that their income has been correctly reported on the application

A copy of the current policy will be on file and accessible to parents in each school. Parents who are dissatisfied with the ruling on benefits for their children may appeal the decision ac cording to procedures outlined in the policy state-

Sarbanes Bill To Help Clean Up Mine Drainage

Senator Paul Sarbanes has introduced legislation that will provide states with the flexibility and additional resources needed to clean up environmental problems associated with acid mine drainage from abandoned coal mines

"Abandoned mine drainage is the unfortunate legacy of coal mining in the years before environmental laws were enacted requiring coal companies to reclaim mined land," Sar-banes said "After the coal was extracted, the land was left riddled with coal waste, known as gob piles, and pock-marked with holes. The mining also unearthed sulfur compounds and metals such as aluminum, man ganese and iron. When exposed to the elements, the sulfur compounds produce sulfuric acid which in turn leaches metal loads into the streams, poisoning the water and killing the fish and vegetation. There are more than 7,600 miles of streams in 11 states that are adversely affected by abandoned mine drainage

Sarbanes introduced Tuesday will enable states to utilize more of their allocations under the Abandoned Mine Reclamation Fund for environmental remediation activities

Sarbanes noted that the Senate Appropriations Committee late last month approved his request for $660,000 in funding to help the State of Maryland use limestone to reduce the damage from acid mine Branch of the Potomac

Killed In Cycle Accident Monday

A Springs, Pa., man died Monday as the result of massive head injuries he received in a motorcycle accident on U.S. Rt. 40 west of the Zanier Road

Leonard G. Hazel, 42, was pronounced dead on arrival at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, after being trans-ported there by the Maryland State Police Medevac helicopter, according to a hospital source

According to reports filed by the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, the 7:30 p.m. accident occurred when Hazel, operating a 1981 Yamaha, rounded a left hand curve, and ran off the right shoulder onto loose gravel. That caused him to lose control and he was thrown off the cycle. His head reportedly struck the support beam of a guardrail and he received massive head injuries Tfc. J.W. Hare investigated and cited speed and driver error as the cause of the accident. He did note that safety equipment was used by Hazel

Brown He was charged with two counts each of assault and battery, resisting arrest, disorderly conduct, and two counts of malicious destruction of property.

Deputy Crossland reportedly also arrested two additional persons in the 11 p.m. disturbance, but details of those arrests were not available at the local barrack

Meanwhile, Garrett County's jobless rate plum meted from 15.3 percent in May to 11 1 percent in June The June 1991 rate was 10.1 percent. OUR QUALITY SHOWS!

The increase in the state unemployment rate was due in large part to normal seasonal factors, such as the entry of students and summer workers into the labor force. An increase in the unemployment rate is normal

As students and summer workersentered the iob mar-ket, Maryland's civilian laborforce rose by nearly 54,400 people, reaching 2,655,716, its highest total ever Em ployment also increased by about 48,000 people to a monthly high of 2,473,146 June's employment increase, while the second best gain of the year, was less than the labor force expansion, causing unemployment to rise by 7,060 people.

Employment in June rose above the recessionary totals of June 1990 and 1991, and also surpassed the pre-recession level of June 1989 by 12,000 people

"The continuing increase in employment in Maryland indicates that the economy is improving, slowly, 'said Secretary of Economic and Employment Development Mark L. Wasserman. "However, we are still seeing contradictory signals in Maryland's economy Retail sales continue to be slow, but other indicators, including housing permits and car registrations, continue well above last year slevels.

Nationally, a much sharper increase in joblessness was noted as the rate rose from 7.2 percent in May to 7.5 percent in June Initial claims for unemployment insurance rose 1.3 percent over June 1991 levels, while continuing claims fell 15 percent

The demand for goods and services has continued to rise and businesses are working overtime to meet this increase demand. Approximately 50 percent of Maryland's manufacturing industries increasedovertime hours During June, the manufacturing workweek rose for the second month, climbing from 40 7 hours to 40.9 hours

Temporary employment agencies reported additional hiring, continuing a trend of recent months. Just as temporary employees are among the first to be let go during a downturn, they are often the first to be hired when the economy beginsto improve.

Other data continues to provide mixed signals about Maryland'seconomy. Retail sales continue to be weak, while residential building permits have risen sharply again and now exceed prerecession levels.

Zebra Mussel Info Program Slated At Lake

The Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area has scheduled a public information meeting to discuss the possible threat of zebra mussels to Deep Creek Lake. The meeting is scheduled for Friday, August 28, in Room 307 of the Continuing Education Building at Garrett Community College. The program will begin at 7 p.m.

First observed in the Great Lakes in 1988, zebra mussels may have been introduced when transoceanic ships discharged ballast water into Lake St. Clair near Detroit. The mussels have spread throughout the Great Lakes, causing major problems in power plants and water treatment facilities. where they clog intake and outflow pipes

The rapid spread of the zebra mussel is primarily a result of its reproductive capacity: females can produce more than 30,000 eggs per season. The fertilized eggs developed into free swimming larvae, called veligers, that stay afloat for several weeks before settling onto the stable surfaces. Once settled, the mussel will likely live from three to five years

Adult zebra mussels look like small clams with yellowish or brown D-shaped shells, usually with alternating dark and light bands. Most are under an inch long, thoughthey can grow as large as two inches In the larval stage, they are so small they are essentially invisible to thenakedeye

Because the zebra mussel threatensevery industry that depends on water, it has the potential to cause problems for many industries and mu nicipal services, and may in directly affect virtually every citizen in Maryland and the Chesapeake region if it

Receive Grants Totaling$190,270

Governor William Donald Schaefer and the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD) announced last week that $190,270 has been awarded to seven nonprofit organizations. The funds are administered through DHCD's Community Assistance Administration under the Maryland Housing Capacity Assistance Program (MAHCAP)

Receiving an award of $51,770 is the Western Maryland Interfaith Housing Development Corporation which serves Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick, and Carroll counties.

"MAHCAP helps nonprofit housing developers address the needs of Maryland's low income families," said Governor Schaefer. "With the state funding the planning and operational costs, nonprofit agencies can focus their efforts on providing housing, he added

MAHCAP was established as a demonstration in 1990 by the General Assem bly to supply funds to help pay for certain administrative costs such as staff salaries and training. Funds can also be used to hire planning and funding consultants.

Only nonprofit housing development corporations are eligible to apply, with the maximum grant being $65,000 over a two-year period. Grants are awarded on

"MAHCAP funds must be matched so this gives the local governments and other funding sources an opportunity to partner with the state to help eliminate the lack of affordable housing," said DHCD Secretary Jacqueline

Baltimore Man Found Guilty Of Battery

A 41-year-old Baltimore man was found guilty by a jury on two charges of battery last week in Garrett County Circuit Court. Fred Lewis, the defendant, was also charged with second degree rape and third and fourth sex offense, but was acquitted of these charges

Judge Fred A. Thayer presided at the trial and ordered a pre-sentence investigation He also ordered the bail to be revoked.

Lewis is accused of accosting an Oakland woman who was unconscious at the time of the incident. According to a witness's account, the defendant was at High View Apartments, Oakland, when he dragged an apparently inebriated young woman into a bedroom and began to sexually assault her. When the witness, a 23-year-old woman, attempted to intervene, the defendant allegedly slapped her. Her screaming woke a neighbor, according to the court report, and he was able to stop the attack.

The defendant made a motion of acquittal to all charges, and the motion was granted as to the rape and sex offense charges, but denied as to the two battery charges Lewis was remanded to the custody of the Garrett County Sheriff

Anita Messer, 38, Oakland, was given two 10-day jail terms after being found guilty of two counts of harassment by Tim Finan, presiding judge from Allegany County District Court. She was also fined $125 on each count and must continue her earlier ordered probation from other charges against her. One harassment charge was filed by Bradley Upole, Oakland, who stated that Messer approached him with note at the Broadford Ballfield after being ordered by Judge Paul J. Stakem to have no contact with Upole or his family. He said when he refused to take the note from her he warned her that she was going to jail if she didn't stop harassing him. She reportedly then had her son attempt to give Upole the note two more times. The other harassment charge was filed by Paula Upole, Oakland, who stated that Messer had continued to follow her after being ordered not to. Spencer R. Schlosnagle, 28, Friendsville, was found not guilty of battery. He was given a 60-day suspended jail term, fined $250, and placed on three years of supervised probation. He was also ordered to seek counseling and to perform 100 hours of community service.

Schlosnagle had been charged with battery through a criminal summons filed by Melissa A. Anobile, Pittsburgh, Pa., a co-worker of Schlosnagle's at a Deep Creek Lake business

Schlosnagle and another employee were reportedly bringing fans to the social room of the establishment and Anobile claimed that while she was bending over to plug in a fan, Schlosnagle embraced her from behind around her upper arms. Before Schlosnagle completed the embrace, Anobile stated that she broke his embrace by throwing her arms back. She said she asked him what he wa doing and he smiled and said Well, at least 1 tried."

Robert E. Carr, 27, Friendsville, pleaded not guilty and was found not guilty of felony theft, petty theft, malicious destruction of property, and unlawful use of a motor vehicle. Carr had been charged by the Maryland State Police, who said that David W. Cosner told them that Carr had taken his motorcycle and helmet without his permission. A call to police on May 19 from a woman tipped them that Carr would be operating a Honda on the Sang Run Road between 1-2 p.m. that day. It was noted the Carr's license was land. Tfc. W.E. Dixon attempted a traffic stop, but Carr allegedly fled and a short chase ensued. Carr then reportedly ditched the motorcycle and ran into the Computer Impact...

The computer age has already affected Garrett County businesses and individuals in a variety of ways, however, the impact of this ever advancing technological era on the county as a whole could be far more significant in the next decade than we ever

One of the wonderful things that computer modems and fax machines provide is mobility. One no longer has to be confined to an inner-city office in order to conduct busmess. Information can be accessed, processed, and transmitted all over the world within minutes, almost regardless of location.

More and more persons who have been restricted to city living for so many years because of their employment are now able to leave that environment and its crime, drugs, pollution, and generally miserable economic conditions. At one time these same people moved from inner city to the suburbs because they still had to come into the city each day for work. But now, with so many of the suburbs taking on the same undesirable characteristics as the cities, they are wanting to move to rural areas, and computer technology is finally allowing them to do just that.

Because Garrett County offers some of the finest in rural life anywhere in the country, we suspect that there will be a growing influx of computer/modemtoting folks coming to establish residence here. While such an "invasion" may have its downside, there is no question that the resulting economic benefits to our county could be staggering

We predict that real estate sales are going to dramatically increase within the next few years, which will greatly boost our local tax base and, consequently, our resources for things such as education, roads, economic development, and many other goods and

Once more, there may be an ideal candidate: state party leader Joyce L. Terhes. To the Editor: We in this county need a spay, neutering program desperately. There are some really cruel people living in this county. For instance, on June 20 1 had found a on June 20 I had found a little kitten which had been beaten and left for dead in the garbage collection boxes off the Weber Road on 219 South. I have desperately fought for her life, to save her, with Bernadine Friend helping Vesterday Algust helping. Yesterday, August 4, I had to sign papers for her to be put to sleep. I'm waiting now for the results of whether she had rabies or brain damage from being beaten and left for dead. This hurts! I am one who loves animals! Since I signed the papers yesterday. I've had two phone calls that four more kittens have been abandoned at the garbage collection boxes.

When I found my kitten in the dump she'd been beaten; her little ears were all black and blue, her nose was bloody, her teeth were broken off, and a toe nail had been torn off. I named her Joni because I was determined she was going to grow up someday withou all the hurt and agony she'd already gone through! Joni did not make it! Now if she had rabies I've been exposed to them and so have a lot of other people who have been involved with the caring and loving of Joni since I found

MACo Issues Report Projecting More Cuts For Garrett County

of Counties (MACo) recently issued a report showing budgetary cuts that have already taken place throughout the state and those the association predicts will take

Deputy Secretary of Maryland Budget and Fiscal Planning Fred Puddester has estimated that the state will have to make an additional $170 million in total reductions in order to keep the tion. FY93 budget balanced. Other fiscal experts reportedly believe the shortfall will be even greater.

Garrett County Commissioner John Braskey, member and former president of MACo, reported that the association's projections are based on what the state is allowed to cut from the budget without legislative approval. Those cuts would reportedly need only the

Boating Access Project Planned At Randolph Lake

Governor William Donald Schaefer announced this week tween the Maryland Army National Guard and the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) will make it possible for Marylanders to gain access to the 952-acre Jennings Randolph Damlake in Garrett County without driving 20 miles roundtrip through West Vir-

The overall project is a major cooperative effort between DNR, the Maryland Department of Environment, the State Highway Adminis-tration, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, U.S. Fish and Wildlife, Garrett County, Westvaco Corporation, and CSX Railroad. This is an extremely valuable recreational resource for the citizens of Maryland," Governor Schaefer said. "It will offer yet another attraction to Western Maryland's growing tourism industry and it's being accomplished through a joint effort of state, federal and county government agencies as well as private industry. The road construction is the first phase of a state plan to construct boat launching facilities, a parking lot, a com-fort station and administrative facilities on the Maryland side of the lake. The National Guard will clear and grub 2.2 miles of the Mt. Zion Road right-of-way which runs off Route 135 in Garrett County to the dam by September 30. "The Jennings Randolph project is an excellent example of how the National Guarduses their military skills in a domestic mission rather than the traditional wartime mission."

the governor said. As a result of a 1987 statewide boating survey conducted by DNR, the Garrett County Commissioners expressed interest in having the state develop a boating access area on the Maryland side of Jennings Randolph Dam. Currently the only ac-cess is on the West Virginia side of the impoundment which requires the 20-mile drive from Oakland.

The births of three infants this week at Garrett County Memorial Hospital were announced this morning by a hospital spokesperson.

A Town Picnic will be held Sunday at 2:30 on the grounds of the Crellin United Brethren Church. Residents of Crellin, prior residents, and their guests are invited to attend. All food will be provided by the Crellin Centennial Committee on a first-come, first-served basis as long as supplies last. Plans are underway to serve approximately 500 people, an event spokesperson reported

There will be games and clowns to entertain children. All those attending are invited to bring a lawn chair and spend the day renewing old acquaintances and making new friends, a spokesperson said.

The church officials have requested that there be no alcoholic beverages on the church grounds.

WWII Bombers To Fly Over, Be In Cumberland

The "All American," the only fully restored and flying B-24 in the world, and the B-17 Flying Fortress "Nine-O-Nine" will fly over Garrett County in about 10 days and land at the Cumberland Airport, where they will be on display Aug. 24-26 for the general public

Both aircraft have been restored by the Collings Foundation, a non-profit organization based in Stow, Mass. According to a spokes-man for the Foundation, during World War II, the B-Flying Fortress was widely recognized for its high altitude strategic bombing effectiveness and its ability to absorb tremendous punishment and bring its crew back alive. The champion of this durability and strength was the 91st Bomb Group, 323rd Squadron plane "Nine-O-Nine" #42-31909, which flew 140 missions without an abort nor loss of crewmen.

Assigned to combat duty on February 25, 1944, by April 1945 "Nine-O-Nine" had made 18 trips to Berlin, dropped 562,000 pounds of bombs, flown 1129 hours, had 21 engine changes, four wing panel changes, 15 main gas tanks, and 18 Tokyo tanks changed aside from considerable flak damage. The B-17G now restored as "Nine-O-Nine" was built by Douglas Aircraft and accepted on April 7, 1945. It has been completed restored to full 1944-45 military configuration with bombs, gune, turrets, and radios. B-24 Liberators dropped more bombs and flew more misaions than any other aircraft during World War II. B-24 seerved the USAAC in every theatre of the war and was the most produced

Laura Stutzman's Work On Display At Ruth Enlow

Illustrations by Laura Stutzman, local artist, are now on display at the Oakland branch of the Ruth Enlow Library. Stutzman is an accomplished illustrator and co-owner of Eloqui, Inc., a company based in the artist's Mountain Lake Park home. She and her husband, Mark, established the company in 1984 and have experienced world-wide success

The artist generally uses an airbrush with opaque watercolor in her work. Her clients have included USA Today and the United States Armed Forces. Her illustration of a baseball player appeared on the front of the national daily newspaper and her painting of an eagle on a U.S. flag background was used in an internationally released Armed Forces Day poster. A more recent client was MCI for whom she created an advertising design Stutzman spent her teenage years in Garrett County and graduated from Southern High School. She was then accepted at the Art Institute of Pittsburgh where she received an associate degree in visual communications. The artist worked for several years in Pittsburgh and then in the Washington, D.C., area as a freelance illustrator before

Forestry, Conservation Camp Provides Hands-On Educational Experiences

by Sherry Frantz High school students from throughout the state of Maryland recently participated in a program developed by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources to provide a learning, hands-on opportunity in the areas of forestry and conservation-related careers for selected students. Those students then used that opportunity to solve real land-use problems submitted to them by real area land-

The students stayed at Camp Hickory, near Accident, where classwork was combined with field trips. They were able to tap into the knowledge and expertise of natural resources professionals in forestry, wildlife, fisheries, and soil conservation-related disciplines throughout the week

Two students from each Maryland county chosen by the local county forestry board) were able to learn more about the nature of the careers that interested them. the education needed to pursue those careers, and the employment opportunities available Jason Friend, Oakland, and Bradley Hoover. Accident, represented Garrett County at the camp

tions were presented to the students on tree identification, silviculture, reforestation and tree planting, urban forestry, non-tidal wetlands, biodiversity, wildlife management, resource protection, and resource utilization, among others.

This year marked the 18th year for the camp and, during that time, an estimated 850 young people have participated, many of whom are now enjoying careers as biologists, foresters, park naturalists, and many other related conservation and forestry careers

The students shared their solutions with each other during the final day of the camp. A casual observation of these presentations revealed that a serious and complicated approach to a large variety of land management issues and situations had been employed

Because forestry and conservation issues are not as black and white as they once seemed to be, the students now entering any of the fields must be aware and knowledgeable in numerous facets of land management, and they must respect the direction and goals, within reason, of the individual they seemed to do just that

ATTEND FORESTRY, CONSERVATION, AND NATURAL RESOURCES CAMP - Shown above are the two students from Garrett County selected to attend last week's Forestry, Conservation, and Natural Resources Week at Camp Hickory Environmental Education Center, Left to right, are Jason Friend Oakland and Bradley Hoover. Accident They were selected by the Garrett County Forestry Board on the basis of their application and references, and joined students in grades 9-12 from all the other counties in Maryland. The staff at the camp included professionals from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (sponsor of the camp), the University of Maryland and area businesses and industries. The camp featured a combination of classwork and field trips which included tours of logging operations, paper and saw mills, and forest tree ies. The students were also instructed in such areas as forest fire control, water quality, environmental and political

"It was a great start for the program, she said, adding that a total of 77 women participated in the cancer screenings this year during the month of June through that program

The CDC grant will also pay for some follow-up services, and Snelson reported that several board-certified gynecologists in Cumberland have agreed to provide those services. The grant will not cover surgeries or breast biopsies but the Health Department will assist women in arranging for those servic-

Snelson noted that the grant applies only to Maryland women, adding that a similar program has been in place in West Virginia for the past year and women from neighboring West Virginia counties should seek assistance in that state

Golden Years

Three younger generations gathered in a New York suburb to celebrate Lillian Postman's 108th birth day. "I've had a lot of high and lows, 'she recalled The highs: her wedding day and six years that followed, until her husband died at 29. Raising her family and becoming a nurse took a lot of blood, sweat and tears, she recalled. How did she make it to 108? "Living every day as though it was my last, and doing what I had to do. Everybody is put here for a certain reason. You have a place in life and you have to find it." The last 100 years have been filled with new things like electricity and penicillin, she noted. Her first eight years were uneventful, a grandson quipped

Garrett Legion Team Wraps Up Tough Season, But Sees Better Times Ahead

losing season this year, the coach of Garrett County's voung Junior American legion baseball team says he witnessed a number of bright spots during the campaign and sees significant potential in the next few

Coach Ed Wildeson noted that only one of his team's 20 losses in 30 games this year was a blowout, adding that the average difference in scores of those lost games was only 2.5 runs. "In other words, we were one pitch or hit away from winning several more games," he said

Among the highlights of the 1992 season were going 2-2 in the competitive 16team Elkins Tournament, a sweep of Mt. Pleasant, Pa, s well respected team in the Western Pennsylvania Legion circuit; and success against West Virginia State Tournament teams "Of the six teams in the West Virginia Tournament, we played three of them. Wildesen said. "Against Morgantown and Wellsburg we ost in the last or late innings We beat Romney and Clarksburg, the West Virginia state champ, and upset Bridgeport to get into the tourney Bridgeport was 15-3

Wildesen said that five. and possibly all six, veterans Also finishing their eligibility

Despite finishing with a on his team are planning to play college ball this fall. Inexperience was probably the major factor in the team's difficulty in recording more notches in the win column, as 10 of the 16 members of the final roster were first-year players

Unfortunately, we did not get Southern High School's number one or two nuchers or Northern High's top player At least four top quality, solid players decided not to play this year," Wildesen said. "So, needless to say, it was a learning experience for all of us."

However, Wildesen was quick to commend his minority of returning players for their leadership and

I hope our vounger play ers learned a lesson this year in commitment, faithfulness, and honesty from our older players," Wildesen said, "especially from Brian Free and Ritchie Baldwin. Both of these kids could have staved in their home towns of Romney and Moorefield to play ball, but they and their par ents supported the idea that once you start a commitment, vou finish it '

Baldwin completed his fourth year on the team. while Free and Garth Glotfelty ended their Legion careers with three seasons

The Garrett County team was slated to play 45 games this season, but that number was reduced to 30 because of wet weather.

With 11 of the team's 16 players eligible to come back next year and eight of those 11 eligible for the 1994 season, Wildesen is confident of greater success over the next two years.

"If this group stays together and practices with the kind of loyalty and commitment I mentioned earlier, they will have a very rewarding experience with Legion ball that will stay with them for a lifetime." the fifth-year coach said. "Certainly part of the reason one plays Legion ball is to have fun, but setting goals and then working hard to achieve them is also important Since the boys are already sacrificing part of their summer for Legion ball, I think it is important that they give it 100 per-Wildesen said that, despite the losing record, Garrett County's season ended on a positive note with two gainst Cumber land, as 14 players showed up for both games "Our last game was a 13-11 dog fight." he said. "Even the Cumberland coach was impressed with the fact that nearly all of our kids were there, despite our losing record. That says a lot for Garrett County kids '

Oaks Win Two At Clarksburg, Split With Cumberland

The Oakland Oaks recorded three wins a pair of defeats this past week in Pen-Mar Baseball League action to slightly improve their season mark to 10-13.

Two of the victories came at the expense of host Clarksburg on Saturday, as the Oaks split a doubleheader and also won a third game that had been suspended last Wednesday. Oakland recorded a 12-9 win in the game that had been suspended, won the first game of the doubleheader, 14-3, and were edged in the nightcap, 7-6

In Sunday's twinbill at Bel Air field near Cumberland, the Oaks were blanked in the first game, 4-0, and came back for a 7-4 victory in the nightcap Charlie Plauger paced Oakland's 15-hit effort in the completed game against Clarksburg on Saturday as he went four-for-four with two doubles and two singles He also scored four times. Tony Angelo finished with three hits, including a tworun homer in the eighth inning. Chad McCullough and Kevin Green each added two hits and Shawn Ryan rapped a two-run single in the eighth.

Rick Paugh led Clarksburg's offense with a grand slam and a run-producing single, while Doug Bertolini went three-for-four and scored twice The Oakland bats remained hot in the first game of the doubleheader, as the Oaks recorded a total of 17 hits and jumped out to a 6-0 lead in the top of the first inning. They added four more runs in each of the

Canada Geese Nesting Season Is Rated Poor

Governor William Donald Schaefer announced last week that the Mary-land Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has found that recent surveys in eastern Canada indicate Atlantic Population Canada ese have experienced another poor nesting season. The Atlantic Population, which nests in Newfound land and throughout much of Quebec, has major nesting concentrations around Ungava Bay area and northeastern shore of Hudson Bay on the Ungava Peninsula. The geese that winter in Maryland are affiliated with this population. Secretary of Maryland DNR, Torrey C. Brown, M.D., commented, "The nesting success of Canada geese is strongly influenced by the timing of spring snow melt" In general, if geese start nesting by early June, gosling production will be average or higher. However, when nesting is delayed beyond June 15 by snow and ice on nesting areas, geese lay fewer eggs, and gosling production is markedly reduced Surveys conducted by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service showed that snow and ice coverage was extensive north of the 54 degree latitude (300 miles south of where concentrations of Canada geese nest) in early June. A subsequent survey of key nesting areas on the Ungava Peninsula in late June showed that geese has initiated nesting, but late spring weather had interrupted their effort

Canada goose produc-tion from this region is expected to be well below average this year. The fall flight of Canada geese this year is expected to contain few young birds. Conservative hunting regulations for migrant Canada geese are expected to be continued this year to guard against over harvest of adult geese

Soccer Association Slates Clinics For Parents, Coaches, Referees

The Mountaintop Association announced this week it has taken two major steps toward the improvement of the program for the upcoming year According to league officials, they have slated two developmental activities for the fall season which should have long last ing results for the future of soccer in Garrett County

First, there will be a parent/coach clinic for anyone interested in either coaching a team or simply learn ing more about the game so they can help their players develop at home This session will be held at Southern Middle School on Monday, August 17, from 6 to 8:30 pm The instruction will be provided by Jay Hegeman, head coach of the well-regarded soccer program at Frostburg State University There is no fee for the training All attendees must bring a ball to the Second, a certified referee clinic is scheduled for August 29 and 30, a licensing process which enables successful participants to referee throughout the state of Maryland The training is scheduled from 8 a.m to 5 p m both days and covers all aspects of the game. The sessions will be instructed by two of the top referees in

According to Association President Carole Ann Lovett, "These two training actions are very important We had several complaints from people in the past about our officiating, and it's understandable when you're using volunteer parents to do everything With trained parents and people who love the game both coaching and refereeing, I think you will see the kids begin to im-prove in both skills and desire to know more. Perhaps next summer we could even schedule our own soccer camp right here in Garrett County "Both activities are open to residents of the entire county and surrounding areas, including West Virginia. The officiating class is important to those interested in supervising games this fall since the

A SMASHING VICTORY - Not only did Herble Rounds "survive" the annual Demolition Derby Monday night at the Garratt County Fair in McHenry, but he won the event and was presented a trophy in memory of Chris Younkin, a Northern High School student who was killed this past spring in an automobile accident. The trophy was sponsored by Accident Garage and Ken Specht Photography, Rounds is an employee of Accident Garage. The Derby will resume this Friday night at the Fairgrounds. Photo by Mike Hetrick.

Association has announced that certified referees will be paid for the games they call, Ms. Lovett said

Registration for the fall eason continues via mail Anyone wishing to enroll in the program should obtain a form from Englander's Pharmacy, Arrowhead Market and Deli, Accident Garage, and Beachy Phar macy in Grantsville

Dave Spirk, MSA secre-tary, said, "We appear to be running ahead of last year's enrollment pace and look forward to another year of growth for the program The cost of $15 is a real bargain for those who play the game. It is truly one of the least expensive sports to com-pletely outfit a team to play "

Regarding the clinics, Spirk, who is a licensed coach, continued, "This is an opportunity that many parents never get when their kids start to play soccer. Those who are selected as coaches for the upcoming season must agree to attend two developmental sessions during the year. This will be an excellent way for them to fulfill half of that requirement or the full quota if they attend the referee ses-parent who just wants to have a better understanding of what's going on, this presents a chance to learn from one of the best in the

Adults who wish to participate should contact Ned Holloway for more information. Additionally, the adult team is forming now. British Friends Of Local Pharmacist Enjoy First Visit To Grantsville by Craig Speicher "Our first test upon arriving in the U.S. was a sixane highway (leading) from Newark airport; and driv ing on the 'wrong' side of the road."

Those are the words of John Wills, of England, where an average home sells for nearly a tenth of a million dollars. Wills was being interviewed by Frostburg radio station WFRB recently, regarding his family's visit to Grantsville

Wills had heard much about America through his Grantsville friend and host, Gerry Beachy. The two became friends when Gerry was 5 years old, living in England with his mother, Jean Swauger. Eventually Beachy and his mother returned to America, but he and Wills maintained their friendship by letters, and by visits whenever Beachy returned to England to see Norman Elliot, his grandfather in Newton near the Wills residence.

John Wills, a business consultant, is married to Val and they have two sons. Jonathan, 18, and Nicholas, 20, who play in an English band.

The Wills family heard so much about Grantsville Days from Beachy that they crossed the Atlantic to see it themselves.

The timing (of the visit) vas excellent," said John Wills, referring to the backto-back celebrations of Grantsville Days and the Fourth of July. "It was a good opportunity to meet people," whom he later described as "very friendly.

While the senior Willses met people, the youngertwo made music. On the second night of Grantsville Days, the band One By One invited the Wills to join in for several numbers. With Nick playing lead guitar and John handling the keyboard, the music culminated with a blues number that brought down the house.

Beyond musical similarities, the Grantsville Days celebration repeatedly sur-prised the Willses, beginning with the parade, which John called "surprisingly larger than those in England...with many more fire trucks." He also noted that, whereas American parade units toss candy to children, in England people throw money at parade par-ticipants, who then funnel the money to charity. The free parking at Grantsville Days also surprised John, because England events usually charge.

American food was another series of revelations for the family. Said John, Your breakfast is very different from ours, very sweet with maple syrup. We don t have that in our country. The younger Wills found American grilled hamburgers "brilliant," while Val was kept busy copying recipes for spring salad and other outdoor presentation of children's theatre (above) ended happily nonetheless, as the entire set escaped into the Friendsville School gymnasium, where King Arthur (pictured above left) continued to lead his valient, "violent," but merry knights in the battle against evil magic. As evidenced by the happy faces of the actors (the actresses had fun. too), it was a good time all around. The story drama, which featured elaborate, colorful costumes and adult participant/guides, marked the second successful performance by Tale Weavers In the county this summer. The professional touring company, based in Bethlehem, Pa., hopes to perform annually here, where they spend the summer. Friendsville Days officially got underway with the lighting of the torch by Lindy Fisher, who ran through the town with fire in hand (pictured left). Pictured below is a parade float sponsored by an area rafting company. At right are the winners of the Friendsville Days talent show. In the front row, left to right, are: Leslie Galther, Shana Sines, Katle Cathell, and Amanda Frantz. In the second row, same order, are: Matthew Cathall, Kristan Callahan, and Ann Sebold. In the back, same order, are: Kerry Murray, Elianne Fife, and Alex Hicks. A photo of the Friendsville Days court will appear next week. Photos by Craig Speicher.

How common are cold sores, and can they be treated?

It is estimated that 80 percent of the U.S. population gets cold sores or fever blisters at some point in their lives. The cause of most cold sores is a virus referred to as the HSV-I virus. This virus is in the same virus family that causes shingles and chickenpox. While there is no cure for cold sores, there are topical nonprescription medicines that may help relieve the pain and itching.

people out there to know why this man was punished. You see, this man has a 13-month-old daughter whom he loves deeply, and he and his ex-girlfriend have a custody agreement so that my friend could have visitation at any time as long as he gave a 48-hour notice (which had to be done by phone). So that's what he did. He called to see his daughter, but was denied several times by the mother for visitation. Now you tell me why this man should be punished for wanting to see his daughter? I mean this was what he was supposed

Another thing I can't understand is that his exgirlfriend has two other children who are lucky to even see their fathers. So why does she want to punish this child?

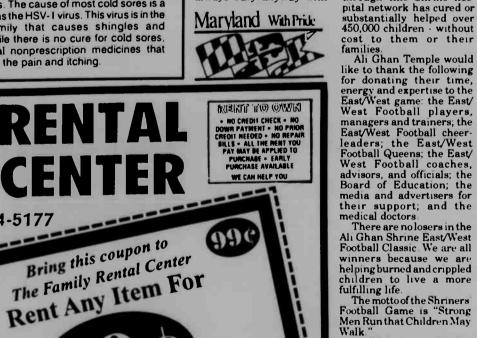

The real reason I want you to know why this man was punished is because I feel that this little girl is being punished also because she needs her daddy as much as he needs her. I'm telling this because this man also my brother.

*INTRODUCING THE SHOP WHERE It's Forever Christmas Eve.

We call it The Holly & Ivy. You'll call it a very different kind of Christmas shop.

Walk from the heat and glare of midsummer into a cozy parlor that is brimming with the sights, sounds, and aromas of Christmas. In fact, it is Christmas Eve. At The Holly & Ivy, the clock is forever set at 11:15 pm, December 24th. Everything is in readiness for Santa's arrival...and yours.

Fragrant punch, cookies, the whisper of snowflakes at the window, and the reflected glow of wonderful things. Here you can browse at your leisure. If you are pleased with a decoration's effect in our parlor, you can easily imagine its place in your own. Our selection is as varied and many-splendored as the celebration of Christmas. The Holly & Ivy is a work of love. The three of us...Julia Lubis, Debbie Savage, and Nancy Frost...have spent months selecting the kinds of ornaments, decorations, and accessories we love to display in our own homes. The Holly & Ivy opens its door on Saturday, July 4th. So drop by one of these warm summer days...and spend Christmas Eve with us.

We're located in the lower level at The Fort in McHenry, next to Savage Frost. Open seven days a week, from 10am till 6pm. Call us at (301) 387-9111.
